THE CLIPPER WISHES YOU A MERRY CHRISTMAS

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

Under this heading we will publish each week important amusement events occurring in the corresponding week a quarter of a century ago.

- Dec. 20.—Robert Downing made New York stellar debut, at the Star Theatre, as Spartacus, in "The Gladiator."
- Dec. 20.—Pat Rooney made New York debut as a dramatic star, at Poole's Theatre, in "Pat's Wardrobe," by Elliott Barnes. The piece was then first acted in New York.

- Dec. 22.—Cheboygan, Mich., Opera House burned.

ACTORS' FUND ELECTION LAWS. TWO TICKETS NEXT YEAR.

The Actors' Fund met Dec. 12, at the Lyceum Theatre, and to avoid the possible recurrence of what President Daniel Frohman called, during the meeting, the "disgraceful proceeding of last May," passed certain amendments to the by-laws. The occurrence Mr. Frohman referred to took place when the Actors' Fund members got together for their annual election. As he put it, a group of men came in a body to the meeting with the purpose of forcing the election of their own independent ticket. The meeting ended in more or less disorder.

The amendments to the by-laws which were passed on Dec. 12, cover up the holes which made such conduct possible, and afford more protection to the fund itself. They provide that no one can be eligible for election to an office of the fund who has not been a member for at least one year, and that no one shall vote at the election who has not been a member for thirty days, and that no nomination for office shall be made less than two weeks before the annual election.

At the meeting of Dec. 2, William A. Brady announced that an opposition ticket would be put in the field next May. Mr. Brady thinks the actors themselves ought to have a chance at some of the offices.

HARROLD AND LYNE SCORE IN "LUCIA."

Oscar Hammerstein's production of "Lucia," at the London Opera House, on Dec. 12, with Orville Harrold and Felice Lyne, in the leading roles, proved a further step toward that conquest of the British metropolis, which the impresario has set out to accomplish.

Harrold fully confirmed the impression he had already created that he is one of the greatest tenors of the age, while Miss Lyne's rendering of the mad scene simply brought down the house.

SINGERS SUE F. C. WHITNEY.

Anne Gura-Hummel, a noted German opera singer, is suing Fred C. Whitney for $10,000 for alleged breach of contract, and Hermann Gura is suing for $3,000.

In June, 1911, runs the complaint, the two singers were engaged by Mr. Whitney in Berlin for a tour of England, the United States and Canada. The woman was to receive $500 a week and the man $200 for a term of twenty weeks.

Mrs. Gura-Hummel was to sing the parts of Octavian and Marschallin, in Richard Strauss' opera, "Der Rosenkavalier."

HENRY W. SAVAGE ON YACHT CRUISE.

Henry W. Savage left New York Sunday, Dec. 10, for a short cruise on his yacht in the Caribbean. The yacht Joyeuse is now at Norfolk, Va., and has on board as guests of Mr. Savage, O. R. Cauchois, New York manager of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, and J. K. Nye, a marine architect. The yacht will cruise down the Coast and will stop at Mr. Savage's property, Swan Island, in the Caribbean. The trip is expected to take about two weeks.

IDA BROOKS HUNT IN "JACINTA."

Ida Brooks Hunt sang the title role in John Cort's German opera comique, "Jacinta," at the Adelphi Theatre, Philadelphia, Dec. 14, for the first time. Miss Hunt was to have sung the role when the engagement of the company in the Quaker City began, but was unable to become familiar with the difficult score in the short time allotted her. It is expected Mr. Cort will give the opera its New York premiere early in January.

WHERE IS FRANK HEWETT?

Maurice J. Burns, of the S. & C. offices at Seattle, sends THE CLIPPER the following communication:

"GENTLEMEN:—Herewith a copy of a letter which I have just received. I have tried to locate this man Hewett, but without success. Will you kindly put a notice in the paper in order that we may get the desired information?"

"A man who was known here as Billy Morrison, and who was killed by jumping from the third story window during the Juneau Hotel fire here a few weeks ago, and who has left quite an estate, was a schoolmate of Frank Hewett, the sleight-of-hand

SHUBERT GETS DAMAGES.

The Court of Appeals at Albany last week affirmed the judgment of the lower courts, which were in favor of Shubert, in the action against Leo Sondheim, brought to recover $25,000 and interest as damages for breach of an agreement to lease to him a theatre to be erected on the Northwest corner of Broadway and Forty-fifth Street, New York City. The original defendant, Blumberg, died during the trial of the action.

This litigation was over the Astor Theatre, at Forty-fifth Street and Broadway, which was built as a speculation by "Blm, the Button Man," who had built a number of other theatres in New York. The house

PAT REILLY DEAD.

OLD TIME BURLESQUE MANAGER PASSES AWAY.

"Pat" Reilly, for many years one of the best known burlesque managers and performers, died suddenly Dec. 13, at Malden, Mass.

Mr. Reilly, although for a number of years prominent as a vaudeville performer, and also part owner of the Reilly & Wood Specialty Co., became best known to the public after he and Louis Robie turned that company into a burlesque organization, which was destined to become one of the leaders in this branch of the amusement business.

Messrs. Reilly & Robie made the company a top-notch in its line, engaging some of the best known performers, Mr. Reilly himself being one of the old attractions, his cartoon work being a unique feature.

Since his retirement from the burlesque field a few years ago he had played vaudeville, appearing with his wife in a sketch entitled "In the Days of '61."

TO PERMIT STANDEES.

The Aldermen adopted on Dec. 12 an ordinance to permit standees in theatres. The resolution, which was advocated by Alderman Dowling, the Tammany leader, was adopted by 47 to 11. It provides that persons may stand in the aisles back of the orchestra seats, provided that a space six feet wide be kept clear when the aisles are sixteen feet wide, or less, and ten feet wide when the aisles are wider. In the gallery and balcony there will be permitted only one row of standees.

GLADYS UNGER BUSY.

Gladys Unger, who made the English adaptation of "The Marionettes," that is being produced at the Lyceum Theatre by Mme. Alla Nazimova, writes from England that she will have three plays going in as many London theatres by next Spring.

Miss Unger, who has not yet reached her thirtieth year, is the only American girl who has ever made a genuine success of writing and adapting plays in the very heart of England's colony of native playwrights.

CHICAGO'S NEW THEATRE.

C. J. Mulligan, a sculptor, who for many years lived in Dublin, Ireland, but of late years has been a resident of Chicago, returned from Europe Dec. 9. He said he had gone abroad at the request of Mrs. Harold McCormick, of Chicago, to study the construction of municipal theatres. He said Mrs. McCormick had given $10,000 toward a new theatre for Chicago, and that $100,000 had been subscribed to present plays of a highly artistic nature.

SUNDAY CONCERTS.

Concerts will be given at the Lyric, Herald Square, Casino, and Daly's theatres on Sunday evening, Dec. 31. At Daly's the attraction will be the Kitties Band, while regular concerts will be presented at the other houses. The entertainment at the Hippodrome will also be a concert, with Mme. Emma Eames as soloist, and at the Winter Garden the usual Sunday evening entertainment will be given.

"THE FORTUNES OF THE SUN" COMPLETED.

Oliver P. Newman, a young writer, who has been dramatizing for Cohan & Harris his story, "The Fortunes of the Sun," completed the work Dec. 13. Some time ago it was reported that this was the play in which Douglas Fairbanks was to star, but it was learned that Mr. Fairbanks' new comedy is to be the work of Geo. M. Cohan exclusively.

NORDICA'S BIRTHDAY.

Tuesday, Dec. 12, was Lillian Nordica's birthday. The singer, who in private life is Mrs. George W. Young, spent the anniversary quietly. In the morning she rehearsed songs in Carnegie Hall, where she appeared in concert on Thursday and Friday. In the evening Mr. Young gave a dinner in his wife's honor at their home, 8 West Ninth Street. Only close friends were present.

HENRY B. HARRIS TO GIVE NEW YEAR'S EVE CONCERT.

Henry B. Harris has announced that he would give a New Year's Eve concert at the Park Theatre on Sunday night, Dec. 31. Members of "The Quaker Girl" company, including Clifton Crawford, Ina Claire, Percival Knight, May Vokes and others, will take part.

LOUISE HOMER AGAIN A MOTHER.

Mme. Louise Homer, one of the leading contraltos of the Metropolitan Opera Company, gave birth to a baby daughter, Dec. 12, at her home, 13 East Sixty-fourth Street, New York City. Mother and child doing well.

MRS. VINCENT BRYAN SECURES DIVORCE.

Mrs. Rae Selwyn Bryan, an actress, got a divorce from a jury before Supreme Court Justice Erlanger from her husband, Vincent Bryan, the well known song writer, Dec. 12.

BLANCHE WALSH.

Blanche Walsh, whose dramatic triumphs were achieved in "Tribby," "Resurrection," "The Woman in the Case," "The Straight Road," "Kreutzer Sonata," "The Test" and other plays, has met with decided favor in vaudeville. In her sketch, which is named "The Thunder God," Miss Walsh is seen at her best, and has the support of two well known and capable players, Wm. N. Travers and John E. Ince. The little classic has scored an emphatic hit at every presentation, and has demonstrated again Miss Walsh's excellence in roles calling for powerful acting. She is playing the Orpheum Circuit time.

BLANCHE WALSH

performer. We are unable to locate any of Morrison's relatives, or his former home, as all of his effects that would give us any clue were burned with the hotel.

"If you can give us a line on Hewett or forward this communication to him, you will confer a great favor on Hewett, Morrison's relatives and his friends here.

"Respectfully, T. A. MAZEY."
"A line to me and I will notify the above of any information I receive."
"Thanking you in advance, I remain,
"Yours very truly, MAURICE J. BURNS."

"THE WEDDING TRIP" TO SUCCEED "THE NEVER HOMES."

Reginald De Koven's new opera, "The Wedding Trip," will open at the Broadway Theatre, New York, Christmas afternoon, Dec. 25, succeeding "The Never Homes." The book of the play is by Fred de Gresnac and Harry B. Smith, and the company will include: Dorothy Jardon, Christine Nelsen, Fritz von Busing, Dorothy Morton, Gwyn Du Barry, Grace Emmons, Edward Martindale, John McCloskey, Arthur Cunningham, Chas. Angelo, George Madison, Joseph Phillips and Charles Busby. The opera is in three acts.

was leased eventually to Wagenhals & Kemper, who have controlled it ever since its opening. When this lease was effected Mr. Shubert brought suit, charging a breach of contract. The case went through the lower courts.

BUSY WEEK FOR "BOUGHT AND PAID FOR."

There will be four matinee performances of "Bought and Paid For," at William A. Brady's Playhouse during Christmas week—on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Out of deference to the members of the company, it had been announced that there would be no Monday afternoon performance of the play, but upon their consent to appear for this extra representation Mr. Brady revised his schedule.

AUDREY MAPLE, THE NEW "PEGGY."

Audrey Maple is now appearing in the title role of "Peggy," at the Casino Theatre, New York, succeeding Rene Kelly. Miss Maple is singing all of the prima donna songs in the play which were formerly sung by various members of the company.

MARGARET LAWRENCE WEDS.

The wedding of Margaret Whitaker Lawrence, daughter of Mrs. George Lawrence, of Philadelphia, who appeared in "Over Night," to Orson D. Munn, of New York, took place Dec. 14, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. W. A. Bliss, 145 Lincoln Avenue, Rahway, N. J. The Rev. Dr. Sadler, of Philadelphia, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Forest E. Vater, of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Elizabeth, N. J., officiated. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Munn will reside temporarily in New York, at the home of the bridegroom's mother.

GRACIE EMMETT BACK.

Gracie Emmett returned to vaudeville after an absence of two years, and at the Bushwick last week had a welcome well calculated to warm the cockles of Mrs. Murphy's heart. This week she is at the Bronx, New York.

ANOTHER RECORD FOR THURSTON.

During a rainy afternoon and evening, on Dec. 10, at Louisville, Ky., Thurston, the magician, opened to the largest receipts of any attraction playing the Walnut Street Theatre this season.

A NEW FOLIES BERGERE.

The Folies Bergere is coming back to Broadway, bigger, gayer and more novel than when it was a gorgeous experiment in the bon bon theatre in Forty-sixth Street. Housed in the Studebaker Building, at Broadway, Seventh Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, it will re-open just before Christmas with a seating capacity at tables of over 800 people, as against 335 in the original plant, and with the price list revised downward. The new Folies Bergere will be a Parisian cafe chantant.

Much was learned at the old Folies Bergere, and the new plant, while even more beautiful and three times as large, is more chaste in decorations, subdued in charges and planned throughout with a reasonable expectation of long life. There will be song and dance and clowning for the winners, but no production will appear upon the exquisite stage, which will be set as a conservatory. Headliners will appear upon the bill, but all the acts will "close in one," meaning that personality and not "props" will be the attraction. The theatre, with its Tzigane orchestra, will be free to the patrons of the new Folies Bergere, and it will "offer," "submit" and "present" diverse entertainment, dashed with paprika until daybreak.

The original Folies Bergere staff will reappear at the new plant. John A. Kaiser, steward; Emile, chef; and Beauregard, head waiter. Henry B. Herts, who designed the multi-colored edifice in Forty-sixth Street, has designed the new Folies Bergere, which takes up the entire ground floor and basement of the Studebaker Building. William G. L. Dodge has done the decorative work. This time the artist did not go to Persia for effects, but has treated the decorations in the cool and reserved style of Adam. The colorings are old ivory, with cameo effects of blue and old lavender.

BILLY CURTIS WRITES FROM LIVERPOOL.

"As promised, I will endeavor to give you a little news from England; also a little advice to those American artists who contemplate trying their luck on this side of the pond.

"Although an American myself, I must admit, as I have always done, that this is the greatest show country in the world. Still I would like to advise American artists not to come over on speculation. The business here is overcrowded, the same as at home, and the method of signing contracts is different than it used to be.

"Instead of doing your business with your agent, over a glass in a public house, you have the same 'dope' to go through as you have in America—get in line and await their convenience. But should artists have booked their contracts beforehand, it is clear sailing for them.

"America is very well represented here this week. Bessie Clayton is billed like a Barnum Show at the Empire, and, according to the press, she is going great guns.

"Julian Rose is the headliner at the Hippodrome, and he was one big scream for at least thirty minutes, and that's going some here, where many an A1 act is limited to six or seven minutes. Also on this bill are the following American acts: Gray and Graham; those three boys, Vardon, Perry and Wilbur; and Arthur E. Ward.

"Mr. Ward was on second turn, rather early over here, but nevertheless he was a hit from the beginning, and finishing with an American eccentric dance, he was repaid with three calls.

"Then follow Gray and Graham, and as I have been over here fourteen years, off and on, and believe I have seen almost every musical comedy act of any note, I can with a clear conscience say that they have got it all their own way. When an artist has to ask the audience to shut up and stop applauding, well, you can guess the rest.

"The big noise of the night, when you can use the word riot in big type, were Vardon, Perry and Wilbur. Liverpool will not forget those three boys for many moons to come; singing five songs, when two are generally allowed to an act of this kind. They came out and bowed five times to the audience, and when the front curtain was dropped they were compelled to take two more. Those three boys have a great future in England, and well deserve it.

"At present all you can hear over here is pantomime, pantomime, pantomime. Every theatre in Liverpool will have pantomimes this Christmas. I am afraid some of them will get a chill. Yet it seems that England would not be England without this sort of entertainment. I am producing three, so I have my work cut out. In my next letter will let you know the verdict.

"To THE OLD RELIABLE and all my friends in America, A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year."

RUSSIAN BALLET ATTACHED.

All scenery and costumes and the box office receipts of the attraction billed as Mikail Mordkin and his Wonderful Russian Dancers, were attached on Dec. 14, by Comstock & Gest, after the single performance which the company gave in the Belasco Theatre.

The attachment grew out of two notes alleged to be overdue which Mikail Mordkin, in charge of the Russian company, gave to Comstock & Gest in settlement of a suit to restrain some of the Russian players from performing under him. The notes were for $1,500 and $1,300. Lawrence Weber, who indorsed the $1,300 note for Mr. Kabinoff, brought suit as an indorser.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE BOYS IN FARCE.
Boys dressed as girls made a big hit at the Knickerbocker Hotel night of Dec. 14, when the sophomore class of Columbia College presented a farce entitled "The Gutta Percha Girl."

"The girls" did very well, considering the difficulty they had with skirts and making their bass voices behave. Their manners, however, were quite feminine. The Mandolin Club played during the entr'actes. The cast included: C. W. Peterson, F. P. Brophy, J. E. Worthington, W. H. Barrett, J. K. Lister, A. L. Graham, W. H. Herbert, A. E. Peterson and C. W. Matheson.

MONTAUK DARK THIS WEEK.

The Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, is closed this week, the week before Christmas. This is usually the poorest week in the year for theatrical business, and the management believes it better to give the stage a vacation rather than to keep the theatre open at a financial loss.

BONITA'S BROTHER KILLED.

O. L. Des Londes, brother of Bonita, who was employed on the Panama Railroad at Gatun, was killed there Dec. 8 by coming in contact with a live wire. His wife will bring the body to the States at a date to be decided later.

AUDITORIUM, WINCHESTER, KY., A SKATING RINK.

The Auditorium, which has been used for two years past as a vaudeville and motion picture theatre, has been closed, and opened as a skating rink on Dec. 15.

"MERRY MARY" CO. BANQUETED.

Stage employees of the Dorchick Theatre, Belvidere, Ill., on Dec. 4 tendered a surprise to the "Merry Mary" company in the way of an elaborate spread.

When the curtain fell on the last performance the stage manager invited every member to remain. Among those seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDowell and Ed. Sewell, house manager and treasurer, respectively; the Dorchick stage employees, and the following members of the "Merry Mary" company: Chas. N. Baker, Bertha Gibson, Harry McManus, Harry and Lulu Wallace, Tom A. Hearn, Al. Stevens, John Saunders, Eddy Martin, F. Monley, A. Marshall, Ruby Rountour, Lola Dale, Helen Lohmar, Helen E. Wilson, Buddy Le Marr, Effie Berri, Pearl McBride, Miss E. Hebbard and mother, and an invited guest, J. C. Wodetsky, who is in advance of the Parisian Beauties Co. Many songs were sung and many stories told until the small hours of the morning, when every one joined in singing "We Won't Go Home Until Morning."

"THE STRANGER" PRODUCED.

"The Stranger," a new play by Charles T. Dezey, with Wilton Lackaye in the leading role, was produced at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 14. The story begins with the return of the one-time orphan to his birthplace in quest of a franchise to operate an electric car line from Danville to Richmond. His plans are opposed by Judge Carter, who controls the old fashioned system already in operation, and the judge's son attempts to vanquish Marshall both in business and in love by casting aspersions on the latter's parentage.

In support of Mr. Lackaye are: Frank Sheridan, A. S. Byron, Malcolm Williams, Howard Hall, Louis Thomas, Harriet Bren, Ouida Berger and Muriel Starr. L. S. Sire, of the Bijou Theatre, New York, is the producer.

BATTLE CREEK TO SPLIT WITH KALAMAZOO.

Starting with Sunday, Dec. 24, there will be a decided change in the policy of the Bijou Theatre, Battle Creek, Mich., for instead of one bill playing all the week there will be a change each Sunday and Thursday. The week will be split with the Kalamazoo house. The usual matinees daily will be given, with exception of Thursday afternoon, when that time will be used to get in the new bill.

Joseph R. Poulin, a hypnotist, known on the stage as Pauline, has brought suit against William Morris, Inc., to recover $16,000 under a contract by which Pauline was engaged for twenty weeks at $2,000 a week. He was discharged after an engagement of twelve weeks. A second suit for $2,000 more is based on the defendant's refusal to permit him to fulfill a week's engagement in Winnipeg. ## OUR LONDON LETTER.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

Clipper Bureau, 14 Leicester Street, Leicester Square, London, W. C.

Dec. 1911.

Sir Herbert Tree, presiding at the annual dinner of the Actors' Association, on Sunday, found poor material for his speech in the affairs of the association itself—they present such a comfortable and cheerful aspect. He had a good deal to say about the music halls, to which it is well known he has not the most kindly disposition. He welcomed the action of the London County Council in coming at the performance of sketches. He claimed that any greater freedom accruing to the music halls must also be enjoyed by the theatre. He uttered some scathing remarks apropos of "lewd nudities"—meaning the dances which just now occupy so prominent a position in most vaudeville programmes. He declared that if the music hall, in immunity from prosecution, should increase in the exploitation of sketches, so competing more strenuously with the theatre, it would quickly appreciate the need of better plays, better acting and more expert stage management. He welcomed the extension of the censor's authority to vaudeville.

Sir Herbert has given another indication of the jealousy with which he regards the vaudeville houses, apropos of the performance which he contemplated at His Majesty's, in association with the Dickens' Centenary celebrations in February. Learning that a process of a similar kind was in process of arrangement at the Coliseum for a date ahead of that chosen for the performance at His Majesty's, Sir Herbert has withdrawn, believing, he says, that the competition would be inconvenient. But to show his good feeling for the Dickens scheme, he has forwarded a personal donation of a hundred dollars.

Sir Herbert Tree is called upon to speak most Sundays now. On Dec. 17 he presides at the annual dinner of the Greenroom Club.

"Lord" George Sanger was laid to rest on Tuesday last at Margate. This is a beach resort, very popular with the middle class Londoners. For a long time Sanger ran a menagerie, a music hall and a dancing saloon here, known as "The Hall by the Sea." He was very partial to Margate, and was much liked there. He owned a good deal of property in the neighborhood. Many well known showmen, including representatives of the Bostocks, the Ginnetts, the Henglers, the Fossettts and the Holdens attended the funeral, which attracted an immense concourse of local residents. The funeral ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Thomas Horne, a clergyman of the Episcopal Church of England, specially appointed to minister to the religious needs of traveling showmen. His official status is that of Chaplain of the Showmen's Guild, but he is popularly known as the "showmen's bishop." It is a remarkable fact that Sanger's murderer is named in his will as a legatee to the amount of $250. The man's father benefits to a like amount.

Fred Terry has had a relapse, and his friends are much concerned. Arthur Hardy proposes to revive "Vice Versa" for a series of afternoon performances, at the Court Theatre, during the Christmas season.

George Edwards makes the amazing statement that a firm of London publishers has offered $200,000 for the right to publish Lehar's works in this country.

The "O. P." (Old Players) Club gives a dinner of honor to-morrow, at the Criterion, to "The Mousie" and "The Arcadian" companies. Judge Parry, the dramatist, who presides at the Lambeth Small Debts Court, will take the chair.

Afternoon performances of "Bunty Pulls the Strings" will be given at the Haymarket during the Christmas season, to meet the extraordinary demand for seats.

Harry Lauder talked very freely to the reporters on his arrival at Liverpool. He said that his American engagements yielded him as much as $2,700 a week. He is accordingly of no disposition to work for English managers at what he regards as a ridiculous rate. Said he: "They want to take everything and give nothing. Some have made fortunes out of me, but if they meet you in the street they never say 'Good morning; glad to see you.' Mr. Lauder is to appear in a Manchester pantomime during the Christmas season.

Jen Latona is in town, appearing at the New Middlesex and the Hackney Empire. She has a most effective song, entitled "Hush, Here Comes the Dream Man."

Adelaide and J. J. Hughes complete their engagement at the London Alhambra this week.

Oscar Hammerstein invited every clergyman in London to last Saturday afternoon's performance of "Quo Vadis."

May Moore Duprez opened at the London Coliseum on Monday, and promptly established herself a popular favorite with the audiences of that house.

Lilla Selbini got to work at the London Palladium on Monday night with Lafayette's ill-fort entertainment, entitled "The Lion's Brie." She made a hit, all right, but the idea, is that the girl will overtax her strength. Hilda Bruce Potter and his wife, Violet Vanbrugh, are again to appear at the Palace Theatre toward the end of December. When they made their debut in vaudeville here their medium was a tragic play by Henry Arthur Jones, called "The Knife," which for one thing offended the medical profession as an outrage on its etiquette. This time the Bouchiers propose to employ a farcical sketch, in which they will have the assistance of Allen Aynsworth.

After Christmas "The Glad Eye" will be transferred from the Globe Theatre to the Apollo. There is no end apparently to its popularity.

When "Baby Mine" disappears from the Vaudeville, James Welch will come into possession of this house for the production of the three act farce, entitled "Billy," elaborated from "Billy's Tombstones." He will have the support of Iris Hoey.

Rudolf Bessler has fashioned a play from H. G. Wells' novel, "Klippers," which Carl Leyel, long associated with Oscar Asche, will shortly produce at a West End house.

Hilda Bruce Potter will shortly succeed Pauline Chase, in "Human and Superman," at the Criterion, where Robert Lorraine's production maintains its popularity. Miss Chase is needed for "Peter Pan," at the Duke of York's.

Of dancers, the cry is "still they come." At the London Hippodrome the two Sisters Weisenthal, whose work was described in these columns last week, are supplemented by Zenga, described as the "champion top-boob dancer of Russia." His work is, at any rate, characteristic of his country. Most of the so-styled Russian dancing we have seen of late has been quite French or Italian in its character, if it should be accurately described.

When the "Follies" appear at the Empire—they are to provide the Christmas attraction—they will feature an elaborate burlesque of the conventional music hall programme. Early in the new year a new revue will be produced at this house, with Ida Crispi for one of its exponents.

Robert Hichens admits that he has found by experience "absolutely removed from each other" are the arts of the novelist and the dramatist.

It was claimed by the Variety Theatres

Controlling Co., of which Alfred Butt is the dominant figure, that Walter Gibbons was not right to ally his halls with those of Oswald Stoll, having given a previous option to Mr. Butt and his friends, who promptly commenced proceedings in the law courts to prevent the Stoll arrangements from being carried out. The hearing of the case has been from time to time delayed. During the week Justice Parker has been applying the fact that negotiations for a settlement of the dispute are in progress. Further delay has accordingly been permitted.

George W. Weatherly, who died this week, was probably the last survivor of the Haymarket Comedy Co., famous in the days of Ben Webster and Buckstone. Weatherly, who was eighty-one, long ago resumed the business of ivory carving, with which his family was associated.

Jack Johnson's initiation to Free Masonry has occupied a committee appointed by the Grand Lodge of Scotland. The report by the day of the initiation orders were remitted for the abandonment of Johnson's initiation, but as the ceremony was already in progress, it was complete and must stand accordingly.

Oswald Stoll is clearly of a disposition to make a success of the New Middlesex Music Hall, which so far has not commanded generous support. The old hall attracted a tough audience, which would doubtless feel ill at ease in the palace with which Mr. Stoll has replaced it. Better class audience need to be educated as to the attractions of Drury Lane. Next week, accordingly, Seymour Hicks is to be exploited in "After the Honeymoon," which, you know as "He Tried to Be Nice," exploited by Edwardes.

Apologists for the "daring" dances now so much employed by London managers, claim that allowance must be made for the Oriental temperament of the dancers. It is pointed out, however, that most of the exponents of "classical" dancing are of the "old school," them a Parisian, another from Hamburg, a third actually of London birth. John Tilson, the well known ballet master, was responsible for the technical training of a lady about whom the press agents have circulated most romantic stories.

Tom Carney, a popular Irish comedian (in vaudeville), is dead.

A Christmas fantasy, entitled "Columbine," is to be produced at the Tivoli on Monday, by clever little Iris Hawkins.

Percy Easton, who was charged with La Milo, the poscuse, with defrauding a jeweler, is now claiming damages for malicious prosecution.

R. G. Knowles was hurried off to India by the newspapers before his time. The fact is, he only sailed yesterday. He does not begin his work in India until the Durbar festivities are wanting. The legend of his adventures is "Exit R. G., Enter R. G." Mr. Knowles proposes a combination of his new style lecture, with his old style vaudeville act. His wife, formerly known as Winifred Johnson, will assist at the piano, likewise with the banjo, on which she is an expert. Mr. Knowles has with him a few vaudeville artists. He will take a number of pictures in India for use in his intended tour of Australia. He does not figure on returning to this country for, at any rate, two years.

Ray and Zack, who are describing themselves as "America's smartest and smallest comedy duo," are this week at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool. They reach town on Monday next, beginning a tour of the Moss Empires with their act, entitled "A Tramp's Trip."

Claude Ginnett, the eldest brother of Fred Ginnett, died on Sunday, at the age of fifty-four. The Ginnetts have been in the circus business for at any rate three generations.

George Bernard Shaw's play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," has made quite a hit at the Palace Theatre.

Cinquavalli, who has for a long time been laid up with a bad attack of sciatica, has completely recovered, and resumed work on Monday, at the Hippodrome, Preston. Last night George Robey put in record his three hundredth appearance at the London Palladium.

A dividend completing 40 per cent. for the year, has just been declared in respect of the Pavilion Theatre, Glasgow.

A curious application was made to the Wolverhampton County (Small Debts) Court for a new trial of a case in which Marie Lloyd is the defendant. A Wolverhampton gentleman obtained a judgment against the artist in her absence for $15, which he claimed he had lent her five years ago. He went so far as to attempt to seize the furniture in her house. Miss Lloyd declares that she never had any dealings whatsoever with the plaintiff, that she did not owe him any money, that the judgment was obtained behind her back, and that the case should be tried anew.

At the London Coliseum on Monday Oswald Stoll will produce an operetta, by Leo Fall, the composer of "The Dollar Princess." In Germany it is known as "Bruderlein Fein." Here it is to be called "Drudy and Joan," which includes a love song, entitled "Under the Blossoming Linden Tree," and a waltz of which one hears great things.

Sir George Lewis, the famous solicitor, who died this week, on the eve of eighty, was a great patron of the theatre and rarely missed an important first night. He acted professionally for many theatrical people and on the less prosperous of his clients was capable of great kindness. He was also a newspaper lawyer, and once, when he was asked to undertake the business of a well known journal, he made it an absolute condition that its dramatic critic should adopt an unfriendly attitude toward Henry Irving his life-long friend. Lewis was said to be the receptacle of more scandalous secrets than any man known to history. But he never opened his mouth, never kept anything in the nature of a diary, never considered the question of "Reminiscences," and so enjoyed the confidence of society—ranging to King Edward, who knighted him.

Alexandra Dagnan, this week at the New Middlesex, has seldom had a success so great as that of her new song, "When I Build a Theatre on the Strand," written from her own suggestion.

Connie Edies will appear at the London Coliseum, at Christmas, in a little comedy called "Laura Kicks."

Walter Bethan, the well known manager of the Nottingham Hippodrome, now proceeds in that capacity to the Gaiety, Birmingham Theatre, Deptford.

Glasgow is to have still another music hall, the West End Playhouse, to be run in connection with the Glasgow Pavilion. Just home from America, report a warm welcome to the Hansa Theatre, Hamburg.

Arthur Collins, of Drury Lane, has secured the English rights of "Le Petit Cafe," in America it will be done by Klaw & Erlanger. Bransby Williams is to forsake vaudeville a while in order to play "Barnaby Rudge," in a drama of that name, at the Broadway Theatre, Deptford.

Max Reinhardt has arrived in London and is personally supervising the production of "Oedipus Rex," by Martin Harvey, at the Covent Garden Theatre in the new year. To-night sees the last of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" at the Queen's Theatre. "The Velasco, whose football dogs are a popular feature at the London Hippodrome just now, is shortly introducing to his act what he claims to be the only laughing jackass that has proved amenable to training. He is also at work on a scenic representation of our great dog race, known as "The Waterloo Cup."

George Bastow, the comedian, has been compelled by sudden illness to abandon his engagement at the London Hippodrome. A year or two ago Mr. Bastow's physicians feared that he was seriously attacked by consumption. The comedian retired to the country, lived an open air life, and tilted the hills. He believed that by this means he had completely restored his constitution, and was fit for work again.

Laurence Irving's passion for the lugubrious is again dominant at the Kingsway Theatre, where his adaptation of Maurice Gorky's "Lover's Depths" was produced by Lydia Yavorska on Saturday. It is a weird picture of low life in Russia, and hardly calls for discussion as an article of theatrical commerce.

"Two Flats," a little farce in which George Barrett and Nan Stuart are appearing at the Coliseum, is an amusing exercise on the old idea of confused addresses, putting a ball in possession of an actress' apartment when she expected the visit of a lover.

JOHN STRANGE WINTER DEAD.

Mrs. Arthur Stannard, who wrote under the pen name of John Strange Winter, died on Dec. 14, at her home, York House, Hurlingham.

Mrs. Stannard was born in York, Eng., on Jan. 13, 1856. She was a daughter of the Rev. Henry Vaughan Palmer, rector of St. Margaret's Church, and a great-granddaughter of the actress Hannah Pritchard. In those memory a monument was placed in Westminster Abbey next to the bust of Shakespeare.

One of her novels, "Booth's Baby," was dramatized.

She was married in 1884 to Arthur Stannard and was the mother of a son and three daughters. She was the first president of the Writers' Club of London, and for two years was president of the Society of Women Journalists. She was a fellow of the Royal Society of Literature. Her home was in London.

MAN HANGED IN THEATRE.

An unlooked-for attraction played the Opera House, Jackson, Ga., Dec. 14, when William Turner, a negro preacher, was hanged in the theatre, after having incited a race riot in which Jesse Singley, a planter, was shot to death.

The sheriff had planned to hang the prisoner in the jail yard, but he feared the crowd would break in. The weather was also very disagreeable, so he decided to hang the negro in the Opera House so that the relatives of the murdered man, who wished to see the hanging, would not have to stand in the rain.

John Hogan, veteran theatrical producer and manager, allied with Lincoln J. Carter's enterprises, lies in the Park Sanitarium, Hot Springs, Ark., suffering from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Hogan first became ill Dec. 10, when the attraction he has charge of, "Gold in Full," played Little Rock.

P. RICHARDS' BERLIN LETTER.

(BERLIN BUREAU OF THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.)

Articles of Agreement between the Managers' Association and the Artists' Lodge.—The midnight performance at the Herrnfeld Theatre—Circus Busch presents a big water pantomime in which a submarine boat plays the leading part—A synopsis of the latest German plays—The Cinematograph as a big factor in modern education.

BERLIN, Dec. 1. We are to-day in a position to render you an exact translation of the articles of agreement entered into between the Artists' Lodge and the Managers' Society, on Nov. 6-8, at the bureau of the latter in this city:

First.—The Int'l. Variety Theatres Managers' Society and the Int'l. Artists' Lodge hereby acknowledge to recognize each other as a duly organized body, each of which is entitled to select and send such representatives to all conferences between the two societies as it may see fit to be represented by.

Second.—The boycott of Das Organ and its subscribers and advertisers, as well as the boycott of Das Programm and its subscribers and advertisers, are herewith lifted by mutual consent. Both societies pledge themselves not to exercise any moral influence over their members to prevent them from subscribing to or advertising in either of the two papers. [By the expression of "moral influence" is meant a manifestation of the whole board of either society, or one or more of its officers, but utterances of an individual cannot be classified under "moral influence." It shall be the endeavor of both societies, though, to use their influence upon their members to make them refrain from any comments in public, contrary to the above decision.]

Third.—Each organization is at liberty to solicit additional members, but shall refrain from ridiculing or aggressing anyone who does not choose to become a member of their society.

Fourth.—Each association will omit any satirical remarks in its paper, intended to harangue or insult the officers or members of the other association. At the same time shall the editor, as well as the writers of each paper, be at liberty to criticize any abuses in the vaudeville business, liable to hurt or grieve the interests of the profession. [The same rule shall be abided by in public meetings where no personal harangue shall be tolerated, neither by the speakers nor by the audience.]

Fifth.—The Int'l. Artists' Lodge pledges itself not to call upon the authorities for rectifying any abuses or imaginary wrongs on part of the Managers' Society, before laying the matter before the latter first, and giving it ample time to rectify any possible faults in the action of their organization. The Managers' Society also declares herewith to refrain from appealing to the authorities in cases of apparent injustice on part of the Int'l. Artists' Lodge, but agrees also to act as above prescribed.

Sixth.—The Managers' Society, as well as the Artists' Lodge, hereby declare not to take any actions whatsoever against any managers or artists who have made themselves conspicuous in the disagreements which led to the arrangement of this present reconciliation. [This also means that no artists shall be made to suffer for having refused to advertise in the managers' paper. The managers wish also to suggest to the lodge to drop all animosity towards those artists who have deserted their ranks during the recent disagreements.]

Seventh.—The Managers' Society promises that its members will not use any unfair means for securing advertisements in their paper, "Das Organ," and that those artists who refuse to take part in any collective advertisements for said paper shall not be made to suffer for it in any way or manner whatsoever. The same shall also be understood regarding the subscriptions to "Das Organ."

Eighth.—Should in future any disagreements result between the Managers' Society and the Artists' Lodge, then the matter shall have to be submitted to a board of arbitration, composed of one member and the attorney of each association.

Berlin, Nov. 8. Signed by the International Artists' Lodge:—Max Berol Konorah, I President; Leo Herzberg, II President; Gustav Will, Sr., Emil Czekowski, Willi Schroeder; Dr. Richard Treitel, Attorney.

Signed by the International Managers' Society:—Leo Bartuschek, I President; Komissariat: Siegmund Kohn, Treasurer; Hermann Blum, Secretary.

The undersigned Section 4 as long as by the above mentioned Section 4 as long as they are representing the interests of their respective associations.

DAS PROGRAMM, LTD., Leo Herzberg, F. C. Sachse.

DAS ORGAN, LTD., C. Bretschneider, Carl Jupp.

Messrs. Anton &amp; Donat Herrnfeld, the owners of the Herrnfeld Theatre, of this city, arranged a midnight performance at their popular resort, on the 28th of last month, the proceeds of which they donated to the Music Hall Aid Fund. The house was crowded on that evening, hundreds having been turned away at the doors for the want of accommodation, notwithstanding the fact that all the seats were sold at a considerable advance in price.

"U 20" (Submarine Boat No. 20) is the title of a new pantomime at the Circus Busch, which offers opportunities for entirely new scenic and light effects, of which the wide awake management has made exceedingly good use. The big circus rink is alternately turned into the deck of a man-of-war, and into a representation of the mysterious depths of the bottom of the sea, while we are observing on the stage adjoining the rink the complicated inner apparatus of the boat.

CHRISTMAS GREETING

TO ALL OUR FRIENDS AND PATRONS, to the THEATRICAL PROFESSION GENERALLY, and to the Editorial, Business and Mechanical Staffs of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, we wish to extend the season's compliments, with CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR TO ALL.

THE GAZETTE SHOW PRINTING CO., MATTOON, ILL., U. S. A. E. B. TUCKER, Manager.

The pantomime is being presented in several pictures, the first of which shows the harbor scene with the boat in the background. The second picture shows the boat itself as it is just sailing forth, and is meeting with a sub-marine in the next picture, whereby the water rushes into the hollow space of the sub-marine, carrying it down to the bottom of the sea. Later we see the divers at their perilous work, attempting to lift the boat from under the coral reefs. Then everything gets alive below, and we are made familiar with the scenes which are transpiring in the under regions when handsome sailor boys meet tempting mermaids.

The last act discloses the man-o'-war with all hands on deck, including a section of German naval boy scouts and a strong man in sailors' garb (Mr. Brinn), who toys with guns and cannon-balls and does an exceedingly commendable heavy weight juggling act. The pantomime is meeting with a very kind reception on part of the public and the press, and will most likely continue to draw full houses for some time to come, if not for the entire season.

The "Calderon Society," devoted to the cultivation of high class drama, gave lately a performance at Kroll's Opera House, in which they presented "Chrysanthus and Daria," an ancient play of the times of the Roman Empire. Chrysanthus, the son of a Roman senator, is madly in love with the beautiful priestess Daria. As his love is not reciprocated, he goes into the desert and becomes a Christian. There he is captured by his own father and his men, who are carrying on a crusade against the followers of the new faith, and upon being brought home among other prisoners Chrysanthus is being lodged in a cell. In order to convert him they send Daria, the priestess, to use her influence over him, but when the doctrines of Christianity are laid out to her by Chrysanthus they take such a strong hold upon her that she ultimately becomes also a believer, and joins him at the scaffold to suffer the death penalty together with him.

The American comedy, "Baby Mine" (Mein Baby), by Margaret Mayo, met with a rousing reception over here when presented at the Trianon Theatre.

"Die Moderne Eva" (Modern Eve), a musical comedy by Jean Gilbert, was presented at the Neues Operetten Theatre recently, by Manager Palfi, and proved a big drawing card. The clever dancing of Carl Bachmann, and the charming voice of Carl Pfamm, went a good deal towards making the play a rousing success. Poldi Augustin, as a modern woman suffragette, and the side-splitting court room scene, furnished ample humor, while a good waltz melody and some fetching duets and sextettes went toward strengthening the musical end. quitted herself very favorably in the principal part.

"Buxi," a comedy in three acts, by Arnold Holz and Oskar Jerschke, held its entrance into the Neues Schauspielhaus quite recently. Alois Buxi is under death sentence for having killed his superior officer and is awaiting his execution, and is just partaking of his last earthly meal in jail when means of escape are offered to him, of which he avails himself immediately. He leaves for regions where it is seemingly impossible to find him, but when all indications point to his pursuers being at his heels he leaves for Paris. There he commences to get into prominence, and succeeds in getting a woman of wealth, but of doubtful character, to become enamored of him. Then we see Buxi rise in society and eventually getting the Cross of the Legion of Honor conferred upon him. The piece is really more the description of a life's career than a play, but impresses through excellent acting and exceptionally good staging.

Berlin's most popular cabaret, "Chat Noir," under the able management of Director Nelson (widely known as the composer of "Miss Dodelsack" and many other fetching musical hits), has added numerous entertainers to its long list of approved stars, and has been very fortunate in its choice. Mara Winghof, Grete Mayhof and Polly Welling are very commendable attractions, and Johannes Cotta's new recitations are a most desirable drawing card.

The cinematograph is rapidly gaining in popularity, and is being held in such high esteem as an attraction for the broad masses, but as a high class entertainment of extreme educational value. Thus we find that personages of the highest rank, like the King of Wurtemberg, are permitting their names to stand at the head of the list of protectors of these exhibitions, while men on the order of Count Zeppelin, the celebrated aeronaut, are delivering their lectures to the accompaniment of cinematographic views.

We were recently guests at the "Uranus," when Dr. Wilhelm Ierndt held his highly interesting demonstrations on the "Secrets of life in nature," on the hand of some excellent cinematographic reproductions, showing the full details of the growing of animal organisms and of the infection of the human blood.

"Nordland," on the Kurfurstendamm, is an exceedingly fascinating exhibition of life in the far North, and even Dr. Cook, of North Pole fame, saw fit to pay this rare attraction a prolonged call during his recent visit to our city. As the papers had it over here, the doctor came for the purpose of interviewing the Eskimos about the life in the Northern regions.

Besides the latter, we find here some natives of Labrador, in their fantastic attire of furs, and in order to present a complete picture there are plenty of Swedish girls on the grounds to amuse with their native songs and dances. The animal kingdom is worthily represented with a big group of trained ice bears, several flocks of reindeers and plenty of Polar dogs.

It is of considerable importance to call the attention of foreign artists who intend traveling on the continent to the existing jealousy between the officials of the railroads of the various States of the German Empire. Especially on the frontier of Saxony and Prussia we are frequently compelled to go through an awful lot of "red tape."

This was exemplified quite recently in the case of Carl Edward Pollak, who is traveling with his own sensational production, entitled "Um ein Web" ("For a Woman's Sake").

In taking his show from Chemnitz to Halle he found himself compelled to engage a special train, as the railroad officials would or could not guarantee him his own and his company's arrival in time for the performance at his destination, although the distance between the two towns is scarcely more than two or three hours, and there was more than ample time to make the trip with an ordinary train. But being afraid of the usual trouble and delay on account of their jealous colleagues on the frontier, the Saxon officials refused to shoulder the responsibility for the timely arrival of Mr. Pollak and his company.

AUSTRALIAN INJUNCTION FOR MCCOY SISTERS.

Nellie McCoy, who has one of the principal roles in "The Enchantress," received word last week, from Melbourne, Australia, that she and her sister, Bessie, had been granted an injunction against two dancers who had been billing themselves as "Nellie and Bessie McCoy" in a dancing sketch, called "The American Girls." Nellie McCoy and her sister had toured Australia when very young girls some twelve years ago, in this sketch, and two clever young English actresses recently conceived the idea of announcing the re-appearance of the McCoy Sisters in that country, where they had attained no great popularity, and to impersonate them in their old sketch. They have been appearing in all the larger cities of Western Australia, and Miss McCoy's attention was first drawn to them two months ago by J. C. Williamson, the well known Australian manager, who managed the McCoy Sisters when they first went to Australia. Both she and Bessie immediately cabled Mr. Williamson to secure an injunction.

BALALAIKA'S FAREWELL.

The Balalaika Orchestra appeared in their farewell concert at the Casino, afternoon of Dec. 14, before returning to Russia. There were typical Russian airs on the programme, and arrangements, of which the "Meditation" from "Thais" was an example. The orchestra was at its best in the purely Russian selections. A wedding song, "The Young Princess Walked about Town Dangling a Golden Key," was a feature.

Mons. A. Kamensky played a balalaika solo, and Messrs. Katsan and Shnitin a domra duet. Mons. Andreff conducted.

ARRIVALS FROM EUROPE.

On board the President Lincoln, of the Hamburg-American line, which arrived Thursday, Dec. 14, was Eugenio V. Pirani, a German composer, of Brooklyn, who said he had sold his opera, "Hexenlied," for early production, in Berlin. He said it had been produced with success in Prague, Bohemia. By the same steamer arrived Mme. Alma Webster-Powell, who is associated with Mr. Pirani in conducting the Brooklyn Musical Institute. Davey Murray, an English basso soloist, arrived by the Oceanic, of the Philadelphia Orchestra, beginning Dec. 23.

EDUCATIONAL DRAMATIC LEAGUE.

The Drama League, formed for the purpose of educating the public to the educational and moral value of the drama, now has a Philadelphia branch. The local branch was formed at the Broad Street Theatre last week, with Dr. Horace Howard Furness, the Shakespearean scholar, as honorary chairman. The speakers at the first meeting were Colonel Sheldon Potter, Fola La Follette and Dr. Talcott Williams.

CINCINNATI WELCOMED "REBECCA."

Cincinnati handed out nothing but bouquets of praise to "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." The Grand Opera House engagement was very successful. Edith Tallaferro is a favorite in that Buckeye metropolis. There were curtain calls without number, and Archie Boyd and Ada Deaves, of pleasant memory, must have enjoyed the receptions they received. Marie Day's Miranda Sawyer was an artistic interpretation.

CHICAGO GETS "THE GREYHOUND."

At the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago, next month, Wagenhals &amp; Kemper will produce Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner's new play, "The Greyhound." In the cast are: Henry Kolker, Robert McWade Jr., Douglas J. Wood, Elmer Grandin, Elita Proctor Otis, Jennie Eustance, Louise Wood, Crosby Little and Susanna Olcott.

BASEBALL ITEMS.

GOSSIP FROM HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE.

BY W. M. RANKIN.

Last week was a busy one in baseball circles. Several conventions were held in this city. The Eastern League was the first to get into action. Its delegates met at the Hotel Victoria on Dec. 11, and held a very harmonious session. One of its first moves was the changing of its name from the Eastern League to the International League. President Edward G. Barrow was re-elected for a term of five years, at a salary of $7,500 a year, a deserved tribute for the able and conscientious manner in which he conducted its affairs during the past year. It was a compliment to Mr. Barrow, as there was not a dissenting voice to his re-election. The case of Manager Jack Ryan against the Jersey City Club was compromised, so that Ryan received a year's salary and became a free agent. The league also arranged for the beginning of their championship season of 1912, on April 18, and ending it on Sept. 23. They elected a new board of directors, and accomplished more real business in the few hours they were in session than is usually the case of baseball meetings. In explaining the reasons for changing the name of the league to International, President Barrow said:

"The league is the largest of all the minors, and the name Eastern was merely a sectional one. The organization is truly international, embracing in its membership two of the largest cities in Canada. Therefore it was decided that a more comprehensive title was desirable. International aptly covers the field, and describes the scope and importance of the organization."

"I think the league made an excellent move in adopting a new name. It was necessary to amend the constitution in order to ratify the change, as it also was to elect me to a five year term. It was very gratifying to me that the vote was unanimous in reference to both changes. In fact, I have never known a more harmonious meeting of the league. All differences were smoothed out, and the club owners are a unit in working for the good of the general organization."

In adopting the title International League—which is more appropriate than was the word Eastern—the delegates did just what was done at a meeting held in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1877, when the first International Association was formed.

On Tuesday, Dec. 12, the members of the National League convened at the Waldorf-Astoria, in this city, but immediately adjourned in honor of the memory of the late Stanley Robinson, president of the St. Louis Club; Charles H. Russell, president of the Boston Club; and Frank S. Elliott, vice president of the Philadelphia Club, all of whom have died since the last meeting of the National League.

On the same day the American League met at the Hotel Astor. Those present were: B. B. Johnson, president; John I. Taylor, James McAleer and Hugh McRoy, of the Boston Club; Charles A. Comiskey, of Chicago; Charles A. Somer, of Cleveland; Frank Navin and Wm. H. Yawkey, of Detroit; Frank J. Farrell, of New York; Benj. Shibe and C. McGillicuddy, of Philadelphia; Robt. Hedges and John E. Ryan, of St. Louis; and Clark Griffith, of Washington. The following resolution, which was offered by Frank J. Farrell, of the New York Club, and was seconded by Charles A. Comiskey, of the Chicago Club, was adopted:

Resolved, That the American League will continue to exercise its privileges and observe its obligations under the national agreement, but will decline to have further official intercourse with the National League except so far as may be requisite for the safeguarding of its territorial and player rights.

Be It Further Resolved, That the American League will not be represented in any other series for the championship of the world or in any other inter-league event unless accorded sole charge of the sale of tickets to games played on its grounds, under an arrangement and with the understanding that it shall not assume responsibility for the conduct of the business department of games at the park of the other contesting club.

Jack Sheridan, the veteran umpire, was voted a pension of $1,200 a year, and a vote of thanks was tendered the Athletic Club for its victory over the New Yorks for the past season games of 1911, and then an adjournment was taken.

The delegates of the National League convened at the Waldorf-Astoria on Dec. 13. Those present were: Thomas J. Lynch, president; John A. Heydler, secretary and treasurer; James E. Gaffney, of the Boston Club; Charles H. Ebbets, Brooklyn; Chas. W. Murphy, Chicago; August Herrmann, Cincinnati; John Whalen and Joseph D. O'Brien, New York; Horace Fogel, Philadelphia; Barney Dreyfuss and W. H. Locke, Pittsburgh; and E. A. Steininger, St. Louis. The routine business was quickly transacted, and James E. Gaffney, the new owner of the Boston Club, was admitted to membership. When the election of officers came up, President Lynch retired from the room. John Whalen, treasurer of the New York Club, placed Mr. Lynch's name in nomination for re-election as president, and Chas. H. Ebbets named Robert W. Brown, of Louisville.

These were the only names presented, and on the ballot were taken, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, New York, Pittsburgh and St.

Louis voted for Lynch. Brooklyn and Philadelphia voted for Brown. Lynch was summoned to the room and informed of his re-election for the ensuing year. The old board of directors, consisting of Brush, of New York; Ebbets, of Brooklyn; Herrmann, of Cincinnati; Dreyfuss, of Pittsburgh; and Murphy, of Chicago, was re-elected. On a motion of President Ebbets, the delegates voted to observe June 14 (Flag Day) by appropriate ceremonies on that day by the four home clubs. The proposed changes in the constitution went over to February meeting. Joseph D. O'Brien was placed in charge of transportation for 1912, and Wm. H. Locke will look after the hotel accommodations.

Mrs. Helen H. Britton, principal owner of the St. Louis National League Club, attended the meeting, accompanied by E. A. Steininger, president of her club. It was the first and only time in the history of the old league that a woman club owner had attended one of its meetings. Mrs. Britton sat in the meeting room throughout the session of three hours as an interested listener and a close observer of all that took place.

After James E. Gaffney had purchased the controlling interest in the Boston Club, he appointed John M. Ward, the veteran professional ball player and now a practicing lawyer in this city, president of the club. There was more work done at the second and final day's session than was the case on the preceding day. It was decided that the championship season should begin on April 11 and end on Oct. 6. The following resolutions were adopted:

"On motion of Mr. Dreyfuss, it is the sense of the National League that Section 17 of the rules governing the World's Series be amended at paragraph 3, which now provides for the division of receipts, as follows: 'Ten per cent of the gross receipts to the National Commission, sixty per cent to the players' pool, and the remainder divided equally between the two clubs,' with this amendment: 'Provided, however, each contesting club be required to pay twenty-five per cent of the receipts into the treasury of the league.' And further resolved that a copy be sent to the American League for its consideration."

The following resolution, offered by Wm. H. Locke, secretary of the Pittsburgh Club, was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The present laws regulating the sale of tickets of admission to places of amusement are inadequate to protect the rights of the public, and

Whereas, The National League of Professional Baseball Clubs stands opposed to that imposition known as the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, and the individual members thereof urge the States of Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri, and the cities of Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis to enact legislation that will make speculation in amusement tickets an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Resolved, That the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs is determined to keep the national game entirely free from gambling.

Be It Resolved, That the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs promises its support to any movement with that end in view, and requests the aid of all constituted authorities in the cities which comprise the National League circuit, and

Be It Further Resolved, That the National League will pay a reward of one hundred dollars for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of gambling in the cities which comprise the National League circuit, and

A clause calling for the drafting and reservation of umpires was recommended. It was also announced that the major league clubs draft minor league players, such minor league players must be paid $50 a month more than they were getting from the club from which they were drafted for a sixty day trial.

The league also recommended a player limit of twenty-five men during the playing season, and thirty-five during the off season.

Draft prices were recommended as follows: Class AA, $2,500; Class A, $1,250; Class B, $1,000; Class C, $750, and Class D, $500.

Major league clubs hereafter must not play in minor league cities before or after the championship season, and vice versa.

The representatives of the National League on the National Commission were requested to vote for all these amendments and changes. The following committees were appointed: Constitution—John T. Brush, New York; August Herrmann, Cincinnati; William Locke, secretary Pittsburgh Club. Schedule—Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh; President Thomas J. Lynch, National League, and Secretary J. A. Heydler. Rules—John M. Ward, Boston Club; Royce Bresnahan, manager St. Louis Club, and Umpire Emslie.

Harry S. Wolverton, a veteran player, recently signed a contract to manage the N. Y. Highlanders. As a player he was a remarkably clever infielder, as a manager he contended with minor league elements. He will have no easy task to perform as manager of the Highlanders, but, at that, he may be able to handle the matter to a successful issue.

It was reported that the Providence Club, of the International League, was recently purchased by Wm. H. Yawkey, Frank J. Navin and Hugh Jennings, of the Detroit American League Club, for a price which was named at $65,000. The Detroit Club is expected to use its new purchase as a "farm" for developing its young players.

Hank O'Day has been selected as a fit subject for the Cincinnati aviators. Will the chorus please rehearse. Poor Hank! He will certainly get all that is coming to him, and then some. Eh, Banny!

What a rare collection of ancient relics Sam Crane has collected.

The compliments of the season were passed between Messrs. Johnson and Murphy of Chicago.

It is said that Mr. Murphy considers those two cubs—Dooin and Moore—old enough to be taken from his Philadelphia Springs and turned loose on the Chicago prairies, as some of his cubs are not frisky enough to suit the Windy City sports. Archer and Brown may be sent to Game Warden Horace for a season or two.

CHICAGO NEWS

ADVERTISEMENTS AND SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED AT WESTERN
BUREAU OF NEW YORK CLIPPER, 505 ASHLAND BLOCK,
RANDOLPH AND CLARK STREETS, CHICAGO

The only change for next week is the Aborn Grand Opera Co., which comes to the Garrick for two weeks. The Majestic and outlying houses, as usual, shift their bookings. Business has fallen heavily from last week.

LYRIC (A. Toxen Worm, mgr.)—"As a Man Thinks," which has not been supported by the theatregoers as was expected, will leave to make room for "The Kiss Waltz," which comes Christmas Eve. The cast includes: William Pruette, Eva Davenport, Charles Bigelow, Robert Warwick, Elsa Ryan, Flora Zabelle, Adele Rowland, Martin Brown and George Pauncefoot.

GARRICK (A. Toxen Worm, mgr.)—Gertrude Hotzmann with her Imperial Dancers, have returned to the city and are playing this house to big business. Aborn Opera Co. comes 17 for one week. On Christmas Eve Mrs. Leslie Carter, who has been absent from these parts for many seasons, will open at this house in a play called "Two Women."

ILLINOIS (Wm. J. Davis, mgr.)—Frank McIntyre, in "Snobs," closes Dec. 30, and plans are being made to find another theatre in the city to house the production after that date.

POWERS' (Harry J. Powers, mgr.)—"The New Code," with Tim Murphy in the principal role, opens Sunday, 10, at this house. The play is supported by Mrs. Aubrey Powell, Frank Hallbach, Richard Sterling, Geo. Wellington, Sydney Riggs, Adeline Bushnell, Jessie Andrews and Dorothy Sherrod.

BLACKSTONE (A. J. Pitou, mgr.)—Frances Starr, in "The Case of Becky," continues, and is making a strong bid for a long run.

PRINCESS (Mort Singer, mgr.)—Valeska Suratt and her company, in "The Red Rose," is now housed here, and the chances are that the organization will have a very successful stay.

COLONIAL (James J. Brady, mgr.)—"Modest Suzanne," with Sallie Fisher, a Chicago favorite, has been playing to good business. On Jan. 1, Christie MacDonald, in "The Spring Maid," will be with us.

GRAND (Harry Askin, mgr.)—Gertrude Elliott, in "Rebellion," begins her last week 18. "Alias Jimmy Valentine," which was scheduled to open here Christmas Day, has been canceled, and "Pomander Walk" will make its first Chicago appearance on that date.

CORR (U. J. Hermann, mgr.)—"The Master of the House," which has quite a long engagement here, will remain till after the holiday season.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL (Geo. Harrison, mgr.)—"Hanky Panky," with a new attraction intermingled, called "The University of Chicago," is proving a success here, although some of the more important stars have left the cast, and lesser luminaries have taken their place. The scene is laid on the campus of the university, where college boys and college chorus girls warble the latest music. Adele Ritchie has left the company, and Montgomery and Moore, vaudeville favorites, have been added.

AUDITORIUM (Bernard Ullrich, mgr.)—"The Grand Opera Co. is being well supported this season, and many performances are practically sold out, which is remarkable, considering the seating capacity. Next week "Faust," "A Traviata," and "The Secret of Susanne," "Quo Vadis" and "Die Walkure" will be presented. Schumann-Helk, Garden, Dufranne and Campanini are scoring heavily during the season.

NATIONAL (John Barrett, mgr.)—"The House Next Door" has been the drawing card here for the present week. Ward and Vokes, the popular fun makers, for 17, and "The Old Homestead" for Christmas week.

CROWN (Carruthers & Rixon, mgrs.)—"Driftwood," an intense drama, is the current offering here. "The House Next Door" 17. "The Girl in the Taxi" 25.

IMPERIAL (Kilmt & Gazzolo, mgrs.)—"The Campus," telling of love and athletics in college life, with the author in the leading role, is this week's attraction. "East Lynne" 17. "Satan Sanderson" 24.

HATMARKET (H. A. Bailey, mgr.)—"The Traveling Salesman," always a good drawing card, is pleasing the clientele of this house. "Lena Rivers" 17, Billy B. Van 25.

MARLOWE (Ralph T. Ketterling, mgr.)—"Lena Rivers," an interesting drama, is the week's offering here. "The Sign of the Four" 17. "The Nigger" 24.

COLLEGE (T. C. Gleason, mgr.)—"Beverly of Graustark" McCutcheon's successful play, was the offering this week. The romance is stronger and more interesting than told in the novel. "The Prince Chap," by Edward Peple, will be presented Monday, 18. The play deals with a splendid moral and allows the principals to spend themselves. Rodney Ranous, Marie Nelson, Camille D'Arcy, Arline Aline, Tom Swift, Harry Manners and Jay Quigley are nicely cast. On Christmas Day "The Stubborn Cinderella" will be offered. The musical comedy had a big run in this city a few seasons ago, and will undoubtedly be well patronized. Norman Fowler will have a good part in the comedy.

MAJESTIC (Lyman B. Glover, mgr.)—With two headline acts and an interesting number of other productions, the bill this week was equal to the average good bill the city has seen. The Century Boys again received an innovation. Manager Godshaw's baby was in the contest, and won the prize for being the healthiest of the lot, but he thought it best to have the prize go elsewhere, so insisted upon another decision on the part of the judges.

LINDEN (Chas. F. Hatch, mgr.)—"The show for 11-13 contains some good singing and billied to open the show, followed the cyclists with a few songs and exceptionally good dancing. Miss Day has a strong personality, and won the burst of applause that she deserved. Jack W. Connelly and the duo Webb present a musical act, called "A Stormy Finish." Their title is appropriate, as the act closes amidst a bedlam of flying furniture and a gale of wind. Their performance has some originality, although much of the slap-stick comedy might well be eliminated or stored away for the small time, where it would undoubtedly be appreciated. Falling from piano stools and tumbling about promiscuously is a thing of the past for the big houses in an act of this style. Boudini Bros. offer a straight musical act with the accompaniment only. In their line they are without doubt two of the best artists on these stages. They are playing vaudeville at the present time. Their repertoire of music pleased the most fastidious, starting with the classical and finishing with the latest popular compositions. Charlotte Parry, a dainty appearing little woman, gives us an act that bubbles with originality and holds the interest from the rise of the curtain till the drop. Miss Parry's offering is entitled "Into the Light," and in it she depicts five characters in a courtroom scene. Her versatility and ability to carry the emotional parts in the manner in which she does is highly praiseworthy, and the hand she received showed the audience's appreciation of her excellent work. Andrew Mack brings out some good talk, intermixed with a few songs, not all Irish, however, and with his melodious voice and winning personality gets his share of the evening's honors. His songs are now, but his jokes are of an old vintage, but with his style of putting them over, they are appreciated, and manage to keep the house in the best of humor.

Maddison followed with a true comedy, Harry, "On a Shopping Tour." Mr. Maddison gives a good exhibition of eccentric dancing, while Miss Thaurer sings a little ditty, entitled "In Vaudeville." Their presentation created laughter, and much well deserved Evans, the inimitable "Honey Boy" Black face, keeps up a rapid-fire talk, brings in a short song occasionally, and carries away the biggest applause and laughs of the bill. His conversation is new and original, and deals direct with the audience, which always strengthens a monologue. He was forced to return several times and feed those who were hungry for his sayings, with more of his funnyisms. Thaler's trained animals gave an interesting spectacle and showed what could be done with dumb beasts after ceaseless training. The training, the training, the ordinary animal offerings. Bill for week of 18 includes: Cecilia Loftus, Valerie Bergere, Melville and Higgins, Percy Waram and company, Mrs. Turgurson, Arthur Deacon, the Four Londons, Clover Trio, and Lane and O'Donnell.

"Two Orphans." The drama telling of life in Paris, is the attraction here for the current week, and the following week will see "The Montana Limited" in this house.

KEDZIE (W. B. Malcolm, mgr.)—Show for 11-13 was an excellent one. As usual Monday night the business was capacity, and the second show did a big business. Although the programme contained two acrobatic acts, they were of such a widely different nature that it did not interfere with the value of the bill. The show was headed by Japoy and Benjamin, originators of the Hebrew character in comedy acrobatics. This act came here from the East a short time ago, and after a showing at the Academy, was given bookings. The Hebrew comedian promises to work into one of the best entertainers in vaudeville. His present performance is worth a compliment, but to the student of the game he is rich in possibilities for work of a still more capable nature. The act got many laughs, and started the bill on a fast pace. The Three Dolce Sisters followed with a dainty singing act and scored one of the best hits of the evening. The girls wear long dresses and depend entirely upon their singing voices and their refined appearance. The applause was most gratifying. Porter J. White and company, in "The Visitor," held third place. In some respects the sketch is lacking, however, the story is sufficiently strong to hold the interest, and placed on this bill it could hardly have been of greater value. Mr. White does some good acting, and the surprise finish caught on splendidly. Bertie Fowler was next to closing. She confines her efforts to story telling and a complimentary, but she announced herself as "The Same Old Girl," and took the lead in referring to her having graduated from the "broiler days." Her work is clever, and it did not fall by the wayside. The Three Donalds closed the show with a strong acrobatic offering, and received merited applause.

HAMLIN (Geo. D. Hopkinson, mgr.)—Bill 11-13 gave satisfaction, and business was big at the first show Monday night. The Powers Brothers opened with a singing, talking and skating novelty, "A Fish Story," and got a good hand. It was the first showing of the act in the West. Victor Hyde, a monologue comedian, was second, and his Russian buck dance, used to finish the act, scored big. The third act was Edwin T. Emery's "The Awakening of Buddha," an Oriental fantastic dancing legend of ancient India. Six girls and one man are in this offering. It proved a big feature for the Hamlin. Bessie Babb was next to closing. There was more class to her first song than those that followed it, but she made very good in that position. The Patty Bros., late of the Ringling Show, brought the performance to a close with the familiar offering.

CENTURY (Bruce Godshaw, mgr.)—Grace Ayer and company proved a most interesting feature of the bill, 11-13. She is a shapely young lady who has a pleasing personality, and does some clever tricks on roller skates which were patented by her father, O. L. Ayers. Major Mohler assists Miss Ayers. He stands about forty inches high, and his comedy is notable. The Great Weber, a female impersonator, entertained fairly well. Billy Brown got all that he could from an offering of limited proportion. He was caught in a last hour as the Potts Bros. refused to do their act, and a baby show advertised had attracted fifty young Americans to make things lively. The crying youngsters got on the nerves of the trio brothers, who positively refused to go on. The Century Boys again received an innovation. Manager Godshaw's baby was in the contest, and won the prize for being the healthiest of the lot, but he thought it best to have the prize go elsewhere, so insisted upon another decision on the part of the judges.

LINDEN (Chas. F. Hatch, mgr.)—"The show for 11-13 contains some good singing and

Many laughs. The Eugene Trio were featured, and gave a nice exhibition on the triple bars. The Lyric Quartette made a hit with their songs. Emmet and Emmet, in "On the Banks of Killarney," found great favor. Charles Weber won the audience with his comedy juggling. John P. Keen was nicely received. There was a good crowd and reports have it that the theatre is prospering. The crowd was lined up for two weeks on Sunday night.

STAR AND GARTER (Chas. E. Moe, mgr.).—Sam Howe's Burlesquers opened this week with "A Day at the Square," written by Howe, in which he occupies the foreground throughout in a manner which keeps the audience in a continuous uproar. The big song hit is "Kazatsky Dance." The olio includes one of the best bits seen on a burlesque stage. Poney Moore is very clever in her portrayal of male characters and quick change, and D. J. Davey's dancing takes his audience by storm. O'Divio is indeed a mysterious novelty, and has everyone guessing when he produces live "beauties" from a glass cabinet of clear water. Daisy Harcourt, the added attraction, sang her old songs, some of which brought recollections of the old days when there were no restrictions upon burlesque. Killian and Moore scored a hit in their dream song, but were lacking in comedy. Beulah Dallas is heralded as "the greatest of all con shouters." If this is true, she certainly is "there," and performs very creditably. The house was well patronized and is establishing an enviable reputation for itself. Hurlitz and Seamon's Social Mads open week 17. The Star and Garter show 25.

EMPIRE (I. H. Herk, mgr.).—The Big Review, with a bevy of pretty girls, and a clever comedian, is the attraction this week. Yankee Doodle Girls 17, Tiger Lillies 25.

FOLLY (J. A. Fennessy, mgr.).—Follies of the Day is the current offering, which is attracting good houses. Gay Widow 17, Star Show 25.

STAR (I. H. Herk, mgr.).—Watson's Beef Show is the week's attraction. Follies of the Day comes to-morrow, with Yankee Doodle Girls 25.

CALUMET, South Chicago, is dark.

INDIANA (Ben B. Levy, mgr.).—This new house, which is open to the public last week, and promises to be very successful. On 13 there was a capacity crowd at the first show, and people lined up in front for the opening of the second show appeared to be a greater number than could be seated. It is a pretty house, and everything was started splendidly. The Lorraine and Dudley Co., in "The Finish," was the feature. This sensational one act farce made a big hit. The work of Florence Lorraine was particularly good. Her support is competent. Burns and Lawrence closed the show splendidly, and the Farber Sisters were charming, and Maximo started things in fine shape.

PARKWAY (A. H. Lewis, mgr.).—Cook and Grant, Kell and Kelley, Grand Demore, Terry and Elmer, Stone and King, Barr and Evans, Wynne Lorraine, Pork Chop Evers, Kawana Japs, Bradford's Chicken Treat, Reno Be Gar Troupe, and Marjorie O'Rourke and picks.

VIRGINIA (W. E. Heaney, mgr.).—Wynne Lorraine, Marjorie O'Rourke, and picks. Pork Chop Evers, Lator and Mack, Kathryn Hopper and company, Wells and McGin, Two Lakolas, Hilda Orth, Sater and Sater, Geo. Hayes, Clancy Twins, Gardner, West and Sunshine.

FOSTER (Thompson & Herron, mgrs.).—Bonner and Mereth, Terry and Elmer, Knapp and Murray, and Four Excellors.

PREMIER (Chas. Schaefer, mgr.).—Helen St. Raynor, Franklin and Davis, Karrell, Raymond Midgots, Eddie Gilmore, Stevens and Bacon, Vera Belmont, and Burkhardt and Berry.

BIJOU DREAM (Sigmund Fallier, mgr.).—Chas. Heines, Levis and Lloyd, Ward and Wilbur, Buel and Malcom, Hilselene, Weiss and Weis, and Marvulous Tierney and company.

MONOGRAM (The Kienitz, mgr.).—The Moores, Williams and Stevens, and the Clarks.

WINDY CITY NOTES.

THE WHITNEY OPERA HOUSE will re-open on Christmas afternoon, with the musical comedy of college life, called "The Campus," by Walter De Leon, who has one of the principal roles in the piece. It is supported by Miss "Muggins" Davies, a player who won considerable vogue on the Pacific coast. It is expected to stay for a run.

MAY HOMER, a well known leading woman in stock circles in this city for many years, will take the leads at the Alhambra, commencing Sunday, 25. The first performance in which she will appear is "Sapho."

RAFFERTY, THE GREAT, a magician, who has played but very little in this country, has been immediately given bookings over Frank Q. Doyle's time in the city and out. He displays some very clever tricks.

EARL SCHNEIDER, of the New York Costuming Company, furnished the costumes for the annual show of the Illinois Athletic Club. Mr. Schneider is a player himself, and has been very successful in placing his costumes with the stock houses in the city.

KELLY and WENTWORTH, who are touring the Orpheum circuit, laid off in Chicago last week, and are playing at Keith's, Louisville, this week. Kelly closed arrangements for a sketch which deals with the Lorimer case. He may produce it shortly.

JAMES EGGERT, who has been in the employ of Thompson & Co. as singer and professional man, has received so many flattering offers from booking agents that he has decided to branch out into the limelight of vaudeville.

THE IMPERIAL THEATRE, Waco, Tex., will open on Christmas Day, playing five vaudeville acts from Chas. E. Hodkins' offices. The opening show includes the Twin City Four, Mabel Elaine, Les Amores and Ben Mulvey, the Two Ettavillos, and Jim Dalton.

MARJORIE O'ROURKE, "The Little Dynamo of Magnetism," whose rendition of "The Monkey Rag" has been much talked of around Chicago, will be seen with a partner shortly in vaudeville.

"Lora," "The Girl in the Parrot," has been so successful by puzzling people that Vic Hugo, of Cedar Rapids, admits she is very clever.

HARRY ASKIN has been successful in his Eastern trip in securing people for his road company of "Louisiana Lou."

CHARLES TANNHAUSEN, formerly at the Princess, and later at the Ziegfeld Theatre, has gone to Kansas City, where he is assistant treasurer to Dan Cotter, at the Shubert Theatre.

EUGENE QUIGLEY is engaged to be married to Hedwig Otto, daughter of Dr. Edward Otto. Mr. Quigley is in the box office at the Colonial, where he is deservedly popular.

A. F. THAVIU, the band leader, has returned from a long tour of the West and South with his band. He played many fairs and had a good season. He is now forming a grand opera company to tour the larger cities.

HERMAN LIEB and his company are playing Michigan time in "Dope." Mr. Lieb recently played two months in New York and vicinity in this vehicle.

"STARLIGHT DREAMS" is bringing many encores for Clark Ambach, George Anthony and Billy Netch. Bert Morphy will soon use the song, which is published by the Loveless Music Co.

FRIEDA HALL has many of her pupils in "Madame Sherry," "The Rosary" and "Excuse Me" companies. Miss Hall is also writing and coaching many sketches and plays.

HARRY GOODMAN's original Samoan Girl Quartette will open at the Lyda Theatre Monday, 18, for the W. V. M. A.

THE ANDERSON TWIN SISTERS, who arrived from Australia lately, are playing around the city in some of the vaudeville houses. They are a clever pair, and are making somewhat of a hit with the song "Senora."

BOB ALBRIGHT, well known in vaudeville, and formerly with the Dockstader Minstrels, is back again in the variety line. Mr. Albright has a good repertoire of songs, among them "Killarney, My Home Over the Sea."

ARCHIE ONRI hurried into Chicago last week, from the Pantages tour, trying to catch his train before they started East. He was in hard luck, for they left three days before he arrived. Onri and Miss Dolly had a successful tour West, and have worked solid for a year. They insisted on a rest in the city after their long tour, and are spending the time visiting friends.

THE THEATRE QUARTETTE, AL H. Wild and Haney and Long opened on the George H. Webster circuit, Dec. 11.

WILLARD MACK and MAUD LEONE opened on the Pantages circuit at Calgary, and made a nice impression. They are playing in a sketch called "The Getaway."

"THE RIGHT PRINCESS" is now in cold storage, but there are possibilities that it might be revived in the Spring, with Maude Fealy as the star.

GEORGE MORABITY, captain of the Detroit baseball team, has written a song, entitled "Remember Me to My Old Gal," which Cy Morgan is using with success in the vaudeville act in which Jack Coombs and Chief Bender are appearing. The song has been bought by Harold Rossiter for a nice round sum. Bob White is also using the number with success.

DIVORCE ITEMS.

PAT REILLY.

Pat Reilly, in private life William Atkin, died Dec. 12, at the Malden, Mass., Hospital, of Bright's disease, fifty-eight years of age. Mr. Reilly was appearing in vaudeville at the Scenic Temple, Malden, in a sketch, called "In the Days of '61," with Flo Wells as his partner when taken ill.

Pat Reilly was one of the first to do a cartooning and lightning crayon act on the stage, and as he was also a clever singer and Irish comedian on the rough order, he gained prominence, when selected to play on the Bowery in opposition to Pat Rooney, who was engaged by the late Harry Miner, at the then fabulous salary of $200 a week.

In 1885 he formed a combination to put out the Reilly & Wood Show, a traveling variety combination of the kind in vogue, to tour the variety theatres, which business and variety combinations divided the time. Dick Fitzgerald, who was then the principal variety agent, engaged the talent. In THE CLIPPER of June 20, 1885, appeared an announcement of the Reilly & Wood Comedy and Specialty Co., with an illustration of Reno, Regina and Reilly painting designs on the prominent billboards and on the front of the theatres. The show opened Aug. 17, at the American Theatre, Hartford, Conn., and came to the London, New York, opening the house for the season, on Aug. 29.

After Mr. Reilly dissolved partnership with Alf. Wood he retained the title for all his future companies, giving the best obtainable in variety talent. Richard Pitroff was a member of the company, also Marie Loftus, the Robert Nelson Family, the Three Foscarys, Salvaggi and Molasso, and many other prominent performers. He was also a partner of Frank C. Bostock in showing the first boxing kangaroo in America. At various times J. D. Hopkins, Louis Robie, Tom Miaci and Harry Sweetnam were connected with the business staff of his shows.

During the season of 1891, in conjunction with Louis Robie, he changed the character of his show to a burlesque production, opening Sept. 14, at Paterson, N. J., and at Miner's Eighth Avenue, New York, Sept. 21. This burlesque company was well known for a number of years. During one season, with Frank D. Bryan as a partner, Mr. Reilly toured the Stair & Havlin houses, in "The Funny Play." The last season of the Reilly & Wood Show was in the Western west, season 2, 4, 8, with Geo. F. Larned as manager. The company included: Pat Reilly, Sam Morris, Nettie and Victor Hyde, Maude and Allie Clark, Ada Lorraine, Ruth Wright, and the Vandekloors.

After Mr. Reilly acquired some property in South Atlantic City, N. J., and at "Fort Reilly" all visitors were welcome. In later years he made his home at Mt. Clemens, Mich., and last season, booked by Jas. J. Armstrong, he made a tour of the Sullivan & Considine theatres. After a summer's rest he came East to the city of the new opera house, the New England theatres up to the time of his death.

LONDON THEATRE.—Bright and cozy as the result of its improvements, the London, still under Manager Donaldson's capable guidance, reopened Saturday evening, Aug. 29. At 8 o'clock there was a grand performance, and a new attraction was at discount. The Reilly & Wood Comedy and Specialty Co. could not have wished for a better welcome to the metropolis. They came with a fortnight's preparation, and had earned their money before the first night. The programme was carried out. John P. Byrnes and Miss Helene, who opened, touched the mainspring of their auditors' laughing apparatus, and there was no wind-up thereafter. Byrnes' act, and the programme, was a bright conversationalist. Miss Helene is a queen of assistants; she forces fun, rather than "feeds" it. Florence Miller is still in fine singing trim, and has lost none of her attractive and modest ways. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Conway's sketch, "Comforts of a Summer Life," is good, and Mr. Conway is a hard worker; but the dialogue will bear cutting and brightening. The Herbert Brothers and brightening. The fourth act, a comedy, was a few months of sixteen years, and Mr. Gerry's Society draws very fine lines, and young Herbert's retirement was rendered necessary.

once in numbers and enthusiasm took on the aspect of a brilliant first night in a variety theatre, Frank Goldie and Sallie St. Clair opened the entertainment. The former, in eccentric singing and an extremely grotesque reel, in wench costume, immediately put the large audience in good humor, while his petite and graceful partner did a neat skirt dance, accompanied with a pleasing song. The Washburn Sisters came next in melodious duet and character singing, their voices nicely, are elegant dressers, and scored an instantaneous hit, but came very near spoiling the good impression they had made by stooping to gather from the stage the pennies thrown by people with extremely low taste. Fielding the juggler, then came forth in some of the neatest work ever shown in this city, for which he was roundly cheered. His make-up materially aided him, and he retired with the plaudits of the big audience.

Allen and Reagan followed in the stereotyped musical turn. It was enlivened with the bright wit of one of the gentlemen, but musically it fell somewhat below the performances of many that have appeared here. The welcome of the evening was then accorded to Peggy Pryde, and right well she deserved it. It was, as is usual at this hour, started by the boys upstairs, and when the little lady came on she was startled by the noise of her reception. She was applauded all through her long occupancy of the stage, and as the audience realized what a hard, conscientious little worker she is, the welcome merged into volumes of hearty cheers. Her last number, which required some moments to effect, brought the urbane Robie to the front to explain the slight wait. What he attempted to say was drowned in a hearty welcome from his old patrons, and he thanked them with becoming modesty. Then came the De Bolle Bros., in a clever tumbling act. They made way for Andy Hughes, and McBride and Walton, in a sketch, which served to introduce the two latter in a rattling setto with the mites. The long bill ended with a burlesque skit, entitled "Hades and the 400." Great preparations had been made for the merry production, both in scenery and stage effects, and, though only one set scene is used, the many bright costumes and marches gave a fine display and passed off well. It is cast to the full strength of the company, and does not drag. Pat Reilly, as the head devil in the lower regions, was extremely funny, and Peggy Pryde and the others of the fair entertainers did well. All in all, it was a gala night, and the management must realize that no more cordial reception has been witnessed under similar circumstances in this city. The specialty acts compare favorably with any now before the public, and the concluding piece, acted in a most liberal manner. The audience was the largest of the season here, and the opening night was auspiciously promising for a successful season. Next week, Nelson's Great World Co.

INTERVIEW WITH PAULMAN.

Louis Paulman, interviewed on board the Oceanic, Dec. 16, with reference to his opinions regarding the future of the aeroplane industry, said:

"Throughout Europe the aeroplane business has grown to wonderful proportions. It has developed into the channels of the military and naval use almost entirely, practically no public exhibitions being given. The Curtiss hydro-aeroplane is recognized as far superior to the amphibious aeroplanes with which other manufacturers in America and abroad have experimented, and I determined to come to America and endeavor to obtain the rights for the sale of the Curtiss hydro-aeroplane in France. I am confident that with the introduction of this modern flying machine I will be able to give increased stimulus to the aviation industry in France and the other countries of Europe."

At Hammondport Mr. Robinson made three splendid flights, which gave me an opportunity to study under unfavorable weather conditions the splendid control which can be had in the operation of the Curtiss machine. The manner in which Mr. Robinson maneuvered the hydro-aeroplane in the air, and the way in which he brought it thirty feet on shore with perfect facility, was a revelation to me. I had no idea that this comparatively new machine had been perfected to such a high degree."

Mr. Paulman, of the Curtiss Company, has promised to deliver my machine to me in France by the middle of January, and I am impatient to receive it, so that I can become thoroughly acquainted with its operation without delay."

Mr. Paulman expressed himself as greatly surprised when informed of the fact that the Curtiss Exhibition Co. has just completed a year's business that aggregated slightly over $500,000. He said in Europe exhibitions and aviation meets were not paying well at all. Mr. Paulman also expressed himself as very well impressed with the facilities which the Curtiss Co. has at its factory in Hammondport, N. Y., for the production of aeroplanes and hydro-aeroplanes. He made a thorough inspection of every department in the Curtiss factory, and was so impressed with the Curtiss motor that he said that he believed it would afford a formidable competitor for the Gnome motor if it was introduced in France.

Arrangements for the manufacture of the Curtiss aeroplanes and hydro-aeroplanes in France by Mr. Paulman will be perfected when Mr. Paulman, of the Curtiss Co., takes Messrs. Robinson and Godet, the Curtiss aviators, to Europe in January.

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS.

During week of Dec. 4 the Signal Corps Aviation School, Augusta, Ga., was well started for the winter season. The Wright, Burgess-Wright and eight-cylinder Curtiss aeroplanes were assembled and flown. The flying began on Thursday, Dec. 7, and all four of the officers made short flights. Flying continued the 8th and 9th, and during the three days the aeroplanes made thirteen trips, having a total duration in the air of 2 hours and 40 minutes.

The flights of special interest were one around the city, Dec. 7, at an altitude of 2,500 feet, by Lieut. Kirtland, and on the 9th both Lieut. Kirtland and Arnold went around the city at an average altitude of 2,500 feet.

On the 8th Lieut. Arnold ascended to an altitude of 4,100 feet. In addition to being an expert aviator with a Wright control, Lieut. Milling has been learning to fly the Curtiss type. His instruction began at College Park under direction of Capt. Beck, and now he is flying very successfully alone.

Since the arrival of the Aviation School at Augusta the weather has been particularly fine, with clear skies, and the local residents assert that it is the normal winter conditions.

P. W. L. CLOSES BAZAAR.

The seventeenth annual bazaar of the Professional Woman's League closed Dec. 16, in the Myrtle and East Room of the Waldorf, where many of the most popular actresses in New York at present appeared in the various booths and sold the objects therein. Lillian Russell presided over the tea table in the afternoon, and many other stars of note helped to swell the fund of the society. Mary Shaw arranged the vaudeville programme of the afternoon and evening, which included the names of Emma Carus, Irving Berlin, Lillian Russell and Donald Brian. The rooms were crowded all day, and it is thought that larger quarters will be necessary for next year's bazaar.

On and after Dec. 31 the Majestics title will pass out of existence, and the coming year the show will be heralded as Max Spiegel's new winner, the Winning Widow.

Mr. Spiegel looks for a prosperous season throughout the West.

Florence Mills will join her old associates, Fields and Scanlon, on New Year's Day. Her presence with these two clever comedians will be a bona fide assurance of a good show to the patrons of all the houses.

The show will make its first appearance in New York City at the Columbia, about the latter part of April.

Monster Theatre Party.

There were great doings at Miner's Eighth Avenue on Thursday night, Dec. 14, the occasion being the annual theatre party of the Heptasopha, a fraternal insurance order. They and their friends occupied 485 seats. The house was decorated, and the comedians introduced many jokes appropriate to the occasion. After the show the visitors invited the members of the Lady Buccaneers Co. to Cavanaugh's Restaurant, on West Twenty-third Street, where the fun was kept up until the early hours of the morning. The evening was a very successful one, and a prize in a raffle, and it was won by Anna Crawford. Handsome and expensive canes were presented to Manager H. M. Strouse, of the company, and to John C. Hanson and Dick Maddox, the leading comedians of the show. Every woman in the company was given a large bouquet of flowers. The entire theatre staff, including Edwin Miner and Jake Lubin, were also invited. It was surely a big night.

What Do THEY Know?

Audiences are funny. They will applaud acts the critics don't like, and which are "not placed right" and "should be moved up." Little sweet jokes, appropriate to the occasion, and chorus numbers that "should be cut down," and first parts that should be afterpieces, and comedy that ain't funny. But what do they know? They pay for their seats.

Don't let them listen in breathless rapture to an old song with beautiful accompaniment and then applaud their hands off. Make them take new stuff.

Give your Sunday concert Saturday night and the critics will be happy. Anyhow, the concerts are all over when the papers come out.

EMPIRE'S NEW DIRECTOR.

The Empire circuit has elected J. J. Moynihan, of Brooklyn, as director, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Geo. W. Heuck. Other changes that followed that tragedy included the call of Carl Herbert Heuck to the presidency of the Heuck Opera House Co., of Cincinnati, and the choice of Walter Heuck as treasurer of the company. The latter is one of the gridiron heroes of the University of Cincinnati football team, and was compelled by his new responsibilities to quit Varsity and football. He would have graduated in 1912.

From Chorus to Leading Lady.

Fern Melrose, who plays the leading role with the Merry Maidens, was taken ill with an abscess in the throat Thursday night, Dec. 14, at Miner's Bronx, and was advised by the doctor not to go on. Maude Black, a chorus girl, who has seen with the show six weeks, jumped in without a minute's notice and played the part, wearing Miss Marlowe's wardrobe and singing all of the numbers. Miss Black was a good soubrette, but with the Bronxites, and certainly helped Manager Schaffer out of an awkward position. A great future may be predicted for Miss Black.

Watson Gets Offer for Beef Trust.

Stair & Havila wired Billy Watson at Chicago, Ill., Dec. 15, an offer to buy out his show for the Majestic Theatre, in Grand Rapids, Mich. Billy wired "Nothing doing." Don't blame him. His advance agents had wired Billy that the house was sold out for Saturday and Monday, both matinee and evening performances.

Marguerite Utter in Vaudeville.

Marguerite Utter, one of the chorus girls with the Merry Maidens, closed with the show Dec. 12. On Friday Miss Utter went on as a professional try-out at the National Theatre, doing a single singing act, and was a big hit. Miss Utter has been booked up for a number of weeks, Moe Blume being her manager.

Fun With Yankee Doodle.

The Yankee Doodle Girls proved clever fun makers during their Cincinnati engagement at People's. Harry Seyon and Lew Reynolds carried off the prizes in the Pullman scene in "On the Road." The Rush-Ling-Toy stunt was voted about the best since the days of the lamented Lafayette.

The Crusoe Girls.

Charles Robinson's Crusoe Girls put up a good show at the Standard, in Cincinnati, and won about as many laughs as any aggregation that has been seen in the Queen City this year. Ida Emerson is a magnet who helps the drawing powers wonderfully.

Phil Paulcraft Manages.

Phil Paulcraft has succeeded Alex. Miller as manager of Jacob & Jermon's Big Gaiety Co. Mr. Miller was suddenly taken ill.

The chorus: Tom Wilson, Ethel Burnett, Lena Wilson, Anna Rena, Edna Webster, Mabel Caron, Catherine Gibson, Lillian De Turk, Ollie Mercy, Mammie Irwin, Anna Carter, Freda Bussa, Elinor Clark, Hattie Tresk, Hilda Evans, Ada Leslie, etc., now on their honeymoon, with Harry Ward, Danny Simmons and Dick McAllister supplying the comedy, struck town and was met with instant approval by an audience that filled this house to capacity.

The opening piece contained mainly singing and much dancing, with vaudeville specialties sandwiched in, and was very entertaining. The costumes looked bright and new, and the musical numbers were all put on in a clever way. The chorus worked well in all the numbers, a little blonde on the end doing excellent work.

Harry Ward, in a Dutch role, was a scream, getting a great many laughs with his funny facial expression and witty sayings. Danny Simmons was all there as an Irishman, as was also Dick McAllister as a bell boy. Margie Hilton, as handsome as ever, looked charming in several beautiful dresses. Margie also had one of the hits in the song line. Lillian Franklin, a prima donna, looked the part, and rendered several songs, with the assistance of the chorus, with good results. Hattie Raymond was a good soubrette, being lively and giving much life to the whole performance.

Charles Redd, as a straight man, would be hard to beat.

During the action of the piece specialties were introduced by the following:

Century Trio, in songs, who met with much success. All have fine singing voices and use them to good advantage. "The Barnyard Rag" was about the best thing they did, and brought down several encores. Ward and Raymond, in singing, dancing and talking, was one of the hits. "Hold Me Just a Little Closer" was sung and acted by them in a clever way. Ward, in an eccentric dance, was a knockout, the audience being loath to let him go. As a dancer Miss Raymond was a close second, being given several recalls for her excellent work.

Danny Simmons, in a singing and dancing specialty, was one big hit. He features an eccentric dance that had the audience roaring.

"The Village Fire Brigade," as the burlesque was about the liveliest thing seen here in some time. It is chockful of comedy, a laugh being supplied every second. The work of all the members was seen to the best advantage, the whole performance running very smoothly and meeting with sure success. Wm. S. Clark is the manager.

Ruby La Belle to Play Dates.

Ruby La Belle handed in her two weeks' notice to Eddie Schaffer, manager of the Merry Maidens, at Miner's Bronx, Dec. 13. Miss La Belle intends to play vaudeville dates.

Florence Mills Changes.

Florence Mills will close with the Behman Show and will join the Majestics, presenting the Winning Widow, to play the widow in place of Florence May, beginning New Year's Day.

Work Rushed on Watson's Theatre.

Masons are rushing the work on Watson's new theatre at Paterson, N. J., and it will be completed about the middle of March. Billy Watson has not decided what attraction will open this house.

The Late Pat Reilly.

The death of Pat Reilly is universally regretted, especially by his former associates and brother managers in burlesque. All will remember his work and make-up in "After the Undertakers' Picnic."

W. J. Kenney, who was to leave the Whirl of Mirth Co., at the end of the week's engagement at the Casino, Brooklyn, came to terms with Manager Charles Daniels, and will continue with the company.

QUEENS OF THE FOLIES BERGERE.

Miner's Eighth Avenue, Dec. 18.

The cast:

Judge Timothy Day.....Joe Sullivan
Ralph Day.....George A. Wood
Richard Travis.....Chas. Frase
Dan Packard.....Frank Anderson
Tug Dugan.....Chas. Frase
John D. Stonefellow.....Chas. Frase

Clerk of Court.....William Locker
Police Officer.....Ben Turner
Vesta Valley.....Lillian Smalley
Mabel Roberts.....Elsie Meadows
George Kinglets.....Irene Callinan
Mag Mooney.....Minnie Hall

The chorus: Pansy St. Clair, Rena Daune, Virginia St. Vincent, Belle Stanley, Sophia Frase, Mabel Fremont, Marguerite Holland, Helen Norris, Margaret Ross, Adrienne Kent, Minnie Hall, Hattie Hesse, Vivian Cones, Reta Carlton, Helen D'Bar and Edna Nichols.

The olio: Lillian Smalley, prima donna.

Wood and Meadows, singing and dancing, and Melrose Comedy Four.

The opening part of the Folies was slow, the book amounted to very little. The songs were for the most part applause winners, George A. Wood, who did good work throughout the performance, nicely rendering "Oceanic Roll," "Always Be Good To the Girls," which was sung by Joe Sullivan, also got the applause, not because the song was a stunner, but because the different girls in the chorus all took a crack at the refrain.

Joe Sullivan was chief comedian, and worked himself into a healthy glow. Joe's speaking voice is a husky one, with a brogue.

Lillian Smalley was the prima donna, and the cause of all the trouble. Lillian was a big applause winner with "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" and "Go Home and Tell Your Mother," the latter sung by a sextette, including beside Miss Samley, Geo. A. Wood, Elsie Meadows, Irene Callinan, Chas. Frase and Frank Anderson.

Elsie Meadows did some fine work as Mable and has a nifty voice. "Boog-a-Boo" and "Love Me" were nicely rendered by Elsie. Irene Callinan has graduated from chorus ranks and is now doing soubrette roles. Irene's only song in this act was a disarming song.

The olio was opened by Lillian Smalley, who began with "You Are My Harbor of Love." "Fiddle Up" was next, which drew hearty applause, and this followed by "She Wouldn't and She Couldn't But She Did," a fast baby that the gallery gods fell for with a roar.

Wood and Meadows, a gingery couple, ran on next with a bundle of songs. Mr. Wood offered an imitation of Bert Williams singing "Sometime," which went with a dash. Some chatter and dancing were also offered, and the pair closed to good applause.

The Melrose Comedy Four closed the olio with songs and a line of comedy of which the German variety was best. A bass solo was the best of the songs.

Act two was faster by far than its predecessor, and the bunch worked with a vim. Joe Sullivan, as the Judge, whooped things along with the Merry Maidens, who, with Geo. Wood got the applause with "Mammy's Shufflin' Dance," and Elsie Meadows also went good with "My Killarney Rose." "Mysterio Rag," by Lillian Smalley, was also one of the favored, calling for several encores. Irene Callinan did a bit of toe and muscle dancing which got the crowd.

HERE AND THERE IN BURLESQUE.

CHIPPER COMMENTS BY OLIO.

DAISY NORWOOD (Mrs. W. S. Clark), the former well known soubrette, is back on the stage after a twenty-year retirement. She is doing bits with the Midnight Maidens, managed by Mr. Clark. They do come back. CAUGHT A CHANGE in the olio of Painting the Town, at the Columbia. The magic act went out and Johnny Neff and Carrie Starr finished the week in their place. Johnny nearly plays some instrument, and by the time he started to monkey with the fiddle he was in the middle of a fiddle solo. The telephone number, with Carrie on the other end of the wire, went all right, and his dancing finish caught on. The Starr part of the sketch is right there with the presence.

THAT'S A GREAT HORSE they have with the Halliday & Curley Show. He has to be scared into start with a pistol shot. FOUR DEEP STANDING ROOM will make a difference in some houses. Dust off the S. R. O. sign.

STAND THE PULSE, in Ralph Brockway's monologue, is quite a surprise.

THAT SHIPWRECKED INGRATE story still goes on Broadway. It's new to 'em.

CAUGHT the smallest audience I ever saw at the Columbia. He had to stand on the seat, last Wednesday, to look over the chair in front. He's a perfectly formed fourteen pound midget, and is a regular visitor, and nonchalantly strolls about the promenade during intermission. The head usher has to sit on the floor to look into his face.

Saw May Howard playing in New York with the Mrs. Dressler Co., playing Perotia Snow, as partner in the team "Frost and Snow," Frost being played by George Gorman, of the Gorman Brothers. Whatever May does, she does well.

"HOT TIME IN THE OLD TOWN" Theo Metz is a new act with the fiddle and the baton. This is half salary week. Merry Christmas!

COLLINS, LA BELLE AND GRACE put over some real footwork and songs with the Pace Makers, at Miner's Bowery last week. This is a new act. Watch it.

CAUGHT a regular soubrette last week. Who? Why, Lilla Brennan, with the Merry Maidens, at Miner's Bronx. Lilla certainly can put over those jingling songs, and for looks, well, boys, she's the candy.

LITTLE JOE (PHILLIPS), Le Boulevardier Dancer, slapped the dinky Parisian glide over the boards with the Merry Maidens in the Bronx last week.

SOME CELT, that Mike J. Kelly, He handed out a bunch of fast Irish stuff with the Merry Maidens at the Bronx last week. Mike can use a towel like a Hoffman House barber expecting a four-bit tip.

FOR A STRONG ACT catch the Lanskings. Here's a real novelty, with the Buccaneers. KELLEY AND ROWE, with a neat little singing act, were real favorites at Miner's Eighth Avenue last week, with the Buccaneers.

MURRAY J. SIMMONS (a Yiddish friend) eased the Bronxites some fast Hester Street comedy, with the Merry Maidens, last week.

THIS BEST EVER! Real favorites! Some sisters! Class and then some! The Watson Sisters! And as for wardrobe! Look 'em over, they are with the Behman Show.

ALBERT REED, with a Charlie Bigelow dome, pulled a nut factory dance that would make a regular bug seek a padded cell at Bloomington. Some dance, Albert. He's a Behman showite.

HIGH C CHARLIE FALKE walloped the top notes for a home run with the Behman Show, at the Olympic, last week. "Mary Mine," a regular song, Charles certainly put over.

CHARMING FLORENCE MILLS, with the Beh-

THE Columbia ushers are breaking in new and classy uniforms, which are in keeping with the other trim features provided and maintained by Manager Mack.

HARRY M. STROUSE was busy last week. He got married.

WEISSER AND HUNTER, the "Tip Top Minstrel" with the Lady Buccaneers Co., are publishing "That Lovin' Bear-Cat Dance," and are scoring a big hit with same. They deserve much credit for their clever singing and up to standard comedy.

GOT TO HAND it to Eddie Schaffer, manager of the Merry Maidens. Pulled through a lot of tight places the last week at Miner's Bronx. Girls jumped out on him, Miss Melrose, leading woman, was taken ill, still Eddie put the show over, and it was a big hit in the Bronx.

MAY YUIR, with the Pace Makers, at Miner's Bowery, last week, put over a classy ballad, "Every Road Leads Me Back to You," and believe me, she sang this ballad as well as she sings a coon song, and May can sing some coon song.

CHARLIE BURKHARDT's slide was well remembered by the boys at the Bowery, last week, with the Pace Makers.

GLADYS ST. JOHN, with Watson's Cozy Corner, at the Empire, Brooklyn, last week, put on Kendis and Paley's new song, "You'll Want Me Back," Thursday afternoon, Dec. 14, after one rehearsal, and was one of the big hits with the show, taking six and seven encores Friday and Saturday. Gladys certainly put over this number.

ELK NEWS.

ELK VAUDEVILLE FOR NEW YEAR'S EVE.

In order that the early part of the eve of the New Year may be as lively as possible, the entertainment committee of Lodge No. 1, are now preparing a first-class vaudeville show, which will be held in the lodge room, and a feeder to be held in the restaurant while awaiting the advent of the New Year.

The best vaudeville acts playing in the city during that week will be engaged, and a show equal to the one given on the night of the action will make the evening most pleasurable.

As a social feature the Board of Governors has decided that Thursday evening of each week be set aside as an occasion when the Home shall be enjoyed by the fair sex. In order that these sessions may not lack attractiveness, there have been arrangements made for features which will be as varied as they will be entertaining. Dances will be held in the lodge room, and vocal as well as instrumental music will be heard in the banquet hall. It is certain that the novelty of these entertainments will meet with the approval and support of all Elks and their better halves.

Although the first ladies' night was not well advertised, many members, accompanied by their wives or sweethearts, were present, and gave evidences of their enjoyment of the occasion.

BROOKLYN ELKS OFFER PRIZE.

A valuable Elk emblem is offered to the member of Brooklyn Lodge who writes a song (typical of Brooklyn Lodge) which meets with the approval of the minstrel committee and is selected for use on the occasion of the minstrel show to be given at the Academy of Music, Feb. 14, 1912.

Songs must be submitted on or before Jan. 8. All songs written for this occasion will be sung on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 7, and also at social session on Friday evening, Jan. 12.

New Clubhouse for Brooklyn Elks.

The Brooklyn Lodge has decided to buy a large plot of ground in South Oxford Street, between Hanson Place and Atlantic Avenue, at a cost of $36,200, as a site for its $330,000 new clubhouse. The location was selected from sixty-seven examined, on account of its central position and its proximity to the Long Island Railroad terminal, the subway terminal, the Academy of Music and the leading theatres. The building will be seven stories in height and will be ready for occupancy in about a year and a half.

THE LAYING OF THE CORNER-STONE of the new home of Yonkers Lodge, No. 707, was attended by the officers of No. 1, Saturday, Dec. 16, pursuant to an invitation which had been extended to all Elks.

A REHEARSAL of the Brooklyn's coming minstrel show was held at the clubhouse Dec. 17.

A REGULAR SESSION of New York Lodge will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 27, instead of Dec. 24 and Dec. 25.

MOUNT VERNON LODGE, No. 842 will have their annual Christmas celebration and distribution of presents to the poor children on Dec. 24. An entertainment will be provided. They gave a minstrel show, Dec. 16 and 17, and a masque ball, Dec. 20, with big success.

GUY L. HURCHING, secretary of the Minneapolis Lodge, died Dec. 10, at his home in that city.

THREE ARTS CLUB.

As a result of the efforts of Mrs. Flske, Grace Griswold and other well known professionals, and many prominent society women and philanthropists of Chicago, the Three Arts Club has been finally organized and officers elected. The club is modeled after the Three Arts Club of New York, where women engaged in the professions of music, art and the drama, may find accommodations for living, and where students in these arts may find companionship among others similarly engaged. After several meetings in Chicago, which were addressed by Miss Griswold and Mrs. Flske, the following officers have been elected: Rt. Rev. C. P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago, honorary president; Miss Griswold, president; Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, vice president; Mrs. Geo. A. Seaverns Jr., secretary; Chas. G. Dawes, treasurer, and the very Rev. Walter T. Sumner, Dean of the Cathedral, chaplain. The board of directors consist of many distinguished residents of Chicago, including: Jane Adams, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. A. Watson Borden, Mrs. J. O. Bowen, Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Mrs. Chas. A. Chapin, Mabel Dick, Mrs. Victor Elmer, Mrs. Goodman, Grace Griswold, Mrs. J. Allen Haines, Mrs. Jas. T. Harahan, Mrs. Charles Henrotin, Harriet Houghling, Mrs. Chas. L. Hutchinson, Miss Jones, Mrs. Samuel Insull, Mrs. Louis E. Jaffa, Mrs. Eben Lane, Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Mabel Linn, Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mrs. Harold McCormick, Margaret Frussing, Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson, Mrs. John Williams Scott, Mrs. Geo. A. Seaverns Jr., Katherine Winterbotham and Mrs. Ella Flagg Young.

MADAME SIMONE'S NEW PLAY.

An agreement was reached last week by Henry B. Harris and George C. Tyler, to present Madame Simone, the French actress, at the Hudson Theatre, New York, Jan. 9, in Maurice Donnay's "The Return from Jerusalem." This four-act play of modern life has never been seen in the United States, although Madame Simone created the principal part at the Gymnase, and where, for a time following the premiere, the attitude of the audiences was not totally dissimilar to the stand taken by earlier audiences at the Maxine Elliott Theatre here, when the Irish Players came to town.

DINNER TO SHUBERT.

Lee Shubert was the guest of Andrew Freedman, Sunday evening, Dec. 17, at a dinner given in his honor at the Hotel Knickerbocker. The guests were forty in all, men of this city who have won distinction in various callings.

They were seated around an oval table that inclosed a sunken garden, in which little pebbled paths led to the miniature reproductions of six stage settings. The garden was the valley, and its entrances were marked with names that showed they were designed to represent the entrances to the Shubert theatres.

RETIREES FROM MIRROR STAFF.

James A. Waldron, for some years managing editor of The New York Dramatic Mirror, has retired from the staff of the publication where he held management.

Mr. Waldron will return to the field of daily journalism.

LOCAL OFFERINGS OF THE WEEK
AT THE VAUDEVILLE AND DRAMATIC HOUSES

Colonial (Percy G. Williams, mgr.)—The approaching holiday season, when the thoughts of a great majority of theatre patrons lightly, or otherwise, turn to the purchasing of innumerable Christmas gifts, has not had the effect of diminishing attendance to any noticeable extent at this commodious theatre. Perhaps this may be partially accounted for by the enticing programmes offered for the patrons amusement by a very liberal management. However, it is an undeniable fact that capacity business continues to be the rule.

The vaudeville stage receives a valuable addition this week from the ranks of those actors who for a time cross the very slight dividing line between the dramatic and vaudeville stages, in the person of Edmund Brown, who made his local debut here on Monday, Dec. 18, in a dramatic one act playlet, entitled "Copy." (See New Acts in this issue.)

The second important position of this week's programme has been accorded to a young impersonator of character songs, Annie Purcell, who comes direct from Europe to the Williams Circuit of theatres. She made her American debut on Monday, and her act is reviewed under New Acts in this issue.

There are three or four other acts listed in this week's bill perfectly capable, in the way of reputation and merit, of heading any programme. Howard and Howard, who seem to have a lien on local vaudeville, are back here this week, reaping more fame, applause and laughter in their irresistible musical and dialogue act, entitled "The Hebrew and the Thespian." In its way there is nothing better in vaudeville.

The sensational violinist, Trovato, is another big feature here this week, and his masterly playing on Monday created a veritable cyclone of applause. He has a very short time, brought his act to a point of perfection where it stands in a class by itself, and he was obliged to respond to several encores for his most popular numbers.

From the time the curtain rose upon the singing, dancing and acrobatic tomfoolery of the Four Huntings, there was almost continuous laughter. The title of their skit, "A Fool House," is aptly named, but it has served its purpose well for many years and is always welcome.

Top notch perfection, in its way, can very justly be said of the artistic act long and favorably known as Jewell's Manikins. Beautifully set in a miniature theatre, which occupies the entire stage, the little manikins are made to do things which very nearly approach the actions of humans, so skillfully are their little bodies controlled by their invisible strings. It is a fine sight act for the little ones and grown-ups as well.

Delmore and Lee have kept their sensational gymnastic act right up to mark, and a little beyond it, these many seasons. These men were the first to realize that a gymnastic number could be advanced to the feature class of a bill, by a showy environment in the way of rich stage settings. An added beauty is given to their athletic feats, and the word classy fits the act to a nicety.

Manhattan Opera House (Frank O. Miller, mgr.)—Marie Dressler is here in her second week as Tillie Blobs, in Tillie's Nightmare, and keeps them laughing by every one of her moves and looks. Eleanor Kent sings and acts excellently as Maude. May Howard is a typical vaudeville partner of George Gorman, who plays the slinky "Frost." John Mayon has developed into an excellent character actor, as the alibi inventor. George and John Gorman introduce their dancing steps, as sailors on the yacht. Frank Smiley is a bright drummer, and Horace Newman takes good care of "Sim." A quartette of lively gnomes stands out prominently among the chorus girls, all of whom are attractive workers.

A very pleasing entertainment is "Betsy," and it should serve Grace La Rue as a starring vehicle for this season and next. The play was formerly "done" as a comedy (with-out music), under the title of "An American Widow," with Grace La Rue in the leading role, and later by Lillian Russell, under the name of "The Butterfly." Its story is therefore familiar to the readers of THE CLIPPER. It would not be amiss, however, to relate it once more briefly. Mrs. Elizabeth Killgrew, a widow, is forbidden by her late husband's will to marry a second time, unless it be to an American. She is anxious to wed an English nobleman for his title. She thinks she sees a way out of the trouble by marrying a poor young composer, leave him at the church door, divorce him, and then marry the earl, who will then be her third husband. She, however, falls in love with her second husband, and the earl returns home minus a rich wife.

Mr. Chambers' book is interesting, and the lyrics by Will Johnstone are very good. The music by Alexander Johnstone is the best heard in many a long day. It is the first time Mr. Johnstone has written music for the theatre, and he is a sure "find." His music is full of charm and sweetness. The song hits are many, but the ones that won the most applause the opening night were "Aristocracy," "Laughter and Love," "First-Gray Hair," and "Dream Love," as sweet a ballad as we have ever heard. The audience endorsed this song until it was exhausted. It is safe to say that Alexander Johnstone's music will be in demand from now on.

Betsy in a brilliant manner and sang the role of great personal success. Since she left the vaudeville stage some years ago she has advanced steadily in musical comedy, and it may be said without fear of contradiction that she stands in the front ranks of those who are now devoting themselves to the popular form of entertainment. Her voice is very sweet and she has a graceful carriage and a pleasing personality. Her acting and singing in this piece is the best she has ever done, and her gowns are gorgeous. Robert Dempster, as the composer who marries Betsy, is capital. We were long ago aware that he was a good actor, but the fact that he could sing was not known to us until Monday night (Dec. 11). He owns a baritone voice of excellent quality, and he knows how to use it.

Alfred Deery, as the Earl, gave a splendid performance, and sang the few songs assigned him in a pleasing manner. Although the role was the well known and greatly exaggerated "silly ass," he made the character interesting.

Juliette Lange, as Abaloni, a "singer full of temperament," with an Irish mother, may be credited with scoring a success, both in acting and singing. She created an excellent impression.

The other members of the company played their parts uncommonly well. The play, which was excellently staged by Edward Elser, was lavishly produced by Mr. Chandler. The second week began on Monday, Dec. 18.

City (Ben Leo, mgr.)—The bill for Dec. 14-16 drew very well.

Mack and Williams had a variegated sketch of singing, dancing, piano playing, stepping, and the lady did a clever rag doll song, and they concluded with several lessons in dancing, just to show how easy it is.

The Rainbow Sisters duetted in "I Don't Believe You" very entertainingly, attired in blue and pink. They came back in rich purple, singing "My Southern Girl." Then in clown suit they did "The Mysterious Rag," and finished in rainbow-colored knickers and tights, and with some good high kicking.

Pryor and Addison opened with "I'm Going Back to My Old Girl," followed by a lively talking act. The gentleman did some banjo imitations, and the lady recited "How the Tramp Saved the Child." He did a country musician, while the lady attired in a gawky make-up, did the old fashioned country dance, giving some latest style movements, with good effect.

"In the Subway" showed the Fifty-ninth Street Station, with a sleepy ticket agent, a grumpy ticket chopper, and a flirtation between a typewriter and her future employer, who took her for a youth masquerading as a girl, about whom he had read in the papers. Some funny situations developed and the skit was well liked.

Alexander Gaden company had a sketch, opening with the arrival of two bank robbers at their cabin, after they had robbed a bank and killed the watchman. One of them is full of remorse. They are visited by a stranger who, during their absence from the cabin, discovers the loot. He is surprised and covered with the guns of the robber, but gets a chance to disarm his opponent and, after a terrific struggle, manages to overcome both of the robbers. The play was well liked. The sketch is full of action and held the attention.

The Campbell Sisters presented their double planologue, alternating at the piano with equally good result. They had mostly old and well known selections, including "Good-night, Beloved," "When You and I Were Young," and "My Honey, My Little Gal," which they sang in the most charming manner, and for which they received many encores.

The Four Juggling Johnsons did some lively work in passing the clubs to each other, some terrific exchanges being made without an error. One of the quartette used his feet in keeping the clubs in circulation equally as well as his hands. A little comedy work by another one of the four was also well appreciated. The crossfire was also a showy feature.

Eli Dawson received the biggest applause of the show for his monologue of entirely new material, which fairly bristled with bright points. Some talk about a college education, the comparison of college language with the more to the point slang, was well taken, and his songs were also new and effective. He had to sing four of them, and was recalled to about eight bows. This act is an entire success.

The pictures included Pathe, Melies, Essanay and Selig films, which were interesting and varied.

Lincoln Square (Chas. Ferguson, mgr.)—A visit to this well managed theatre on Thursday, Dec. 14, found an audience of good proportions assembled, and by the time the first of the six vaudeville acts, which came in on that date, with the weekly change of bill, appeared, around 2 o'clock, nearly all the seats were filled.

Prior to the appearance of the opening vaudeville act, several reels of new films had been run off. As a new series of motion pictures are exhibited here every day in the year, it is a question if the theatre's patrons realize the amount of labor involved in their production, and the expenditure of money required in order to place before them a daily change of films.

The audiences here, however, show their appreciation of the excellent orchestra, as on Thursday several of its selections were greeted with rounds of applause.

The Misses Zarnia and Wynne started the vaudeville end of the new programme, getting nicely in an ambitious selection of songs, dances and character impersonations. The girls began with a song duet in pretty costumes, in one, changing to more stage room in two, where, before a red plush back drop, one of the girls did a neat dance in Russian costume. Following this a male (single) impersonation, was well done, the wig, as is usual, spilling the otherwise neat, boyish appearance of the performer. A prettily costumed single Spanish dance, and a harlequin double dancing number brought one of the girls on embellished with electric globes, and this closed their act strongly.

Darcy and Williams, two lively boys (one of them at the piano), and who know how to sing, scored the musical hit of the show. Their songs were of the catchy order, and no possible opportunity in creating harmony was neglected.

A small portion of the audience was not inclined at the start to accept Mabel Johnston's ventriloquism seriously, but she returned her courage, and before the completion of her act, she had the entire audience applauding her excellent ventriloquial efforts. Miss Johnstone's pretty face is a most valuable asset, and her novel finish, in throwing her voice a long distance, brought her three bows.

Murry Livingston and company of two appeared in an entertaining little playlet, which gave Mr. Livingston opportunity to portray the role of an Italian vender of images, admirably. His support was lacking, somewhat, in getting the full effectiveness of their roles offered. Mr. Livingston rendered an Italian song duet.

Billy K. Wells opened his act with a lot of funny song parodies, closing with a rousing round of applause in a Hebrew political harangue that got over to a laughing finish. He could have taken an encore, but the man at the switchboard said no.

The sixth and closing vaudeville act, the Angelo Trio, proved to be a corking good acrobatic number, consisting of two men and a girl. The elder of the men is one of the best understudies in the business, and the same may be said of the boy, in his skillful and graceful tumbling feats. The older athlete did some of the finest "carrying" feats of the two younger performers, up and down a flight of steps, ever seen around here, and there is no "time" in this country too big to play this act.

Proctor's Twenty-third Street (F. F. Proctor, mgr.)—The bill for 13-17 included entertaining acts and pictures.

Richards and Richards presented a ring act and high bar act, in which excellent straight work by the athlete doing the holding was augmented by comical clowning of his partner, in white clown make-up. Their various stunts were applauded.

Josephine Relis contributed three vocal numbers, namely, "Waltz, Waltz, Waltz," "Mine" and "You Can't Do Without the Girls," in a neat, simple gown, and with good effect.

Frankie Carpenter, formerly a well known star on the week stands, presented her sketch, in which she, as the assistant to a traveling magician, visits an old shoemaker shop to have a pair of shoes mended. She teaches the old man, who is antagonistic to theatres and show folks, on account of having lost a daughter to an actor, that not all people on the stage are bad, and after mystifying him by a few tricks in magic, induces him to go and see the show that day, finishing with a trick whereby he nearly lost his trousers. Miss Carpenter was thoroughly natural in her acting, and the old man was well played by her partner.

Fullerton and the Fuller Sisters had a variegated singing and dancing number, including the trio, "I Like Your Hat," etc. Then Mr. Fullerton sang "There Goes Little Kraus," a catchy song. A graceful dance followed, with one of the girls as his next appearance. Then the other girl sang a verse on the telephone of "Shut Your Eyes," and another verse with him on the sofa. A Spanish single then entertained until the sister, with Mr. Fullerton, joined in singing "Fragrant Land," with some pretty steps, finishing by both girls being carried off together in his arms, to good applause.

Joe Flynn entertained with a mixture of old and new gags in rapid-fire delivery. A mysterious Rag parody caught on immensely, also several others on late publications.

Home Miles' Players, including himself, two men and a girl, presented a sketch including a detective, which character has lately become very popular. Mr. Miles, as the janitor, with his ready tongue and arm, defeats the policeman who, under the pretense of suspecting her as a pickpocket, is persecuting a young Southern girl, who has repulsed his advances, and her young man. The janitor floors him near the finish, and Miles the couple to run for a life line. Mr. Miles has a happy style of delivering the many fat lines in the role.

O'Brien and Buckley (Walker) had a bright act, with much new business and exchange of repartee. Buxom Mrs. O'Brien was becomingly attired in a richly embroidered velvet gown, and Bill looked bigger than ever in the loose dress suit. His violin and cornet playing in the duets with the Mrs. were well received. In a betting bit he showed a roll of real money. The St. Patrick's Day finish, with the sash and the hat that faded worse, with cornet and horn playing of the same song, was well liked.

The pictures included several stirring Western dramas, with the usual horseback pursuits and rescues, a heroic fire rescue, several educational films and an interesting series of Edison views at a State fair, all good pictures.

The theatre has been thoroughly renovated and decorated in Nile green and white, and presents a pretty interior.

The bill for Dec. 18-20 includes: The Helen Brown company, Gavin and Platt, Phil Jean Bernard, Jack Harlowe and company, Leclair and Lawrence, Loraine's ponies, "Christmas at Huggins," and the pictures.

American (Chas. Potsdam, mgr.)—The patrons of this house got their money's worth the last half of the past week, with the vaudeville bill and a strong line of moving pictures. One of the pictures, scenes of the army and navy football game, in Philadelphia, was applauded.

Zeno and Mandell, with some piano playing and a number of good songs, were hearty applause winners. Both are known for their ability of making funny faces, and both can sing. The lady carried around a bunch of avoirdupois, which she is not ashamed to admit, but this in no way hampers her singing abilities, as she can hold her own with the best of them at "getting over" a rag number. "When Rag Time Rosie Ragged the Rosary" was this lady's best number, and she took the house by storm. The man scored heavily with "I'm Going Fishing, Too," and a corking Italian number, "Maccaroni Joe," as did the pair with "Can't You Get a Little Closer."

Sampel and Relly gave a good account of themselves with their songs. Both make an excellent appearance, the lady displaying a number of beautiful gowns. "Fiddle Up" and "That Skeleton Rag" served them well as duet numbers, and the lady earned rounds of applause by her rendition of "In All My Dreams" and "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," in which she was ably assisted by her partner.

Dwyer and Graham introduced a comedy dramatic sketch, which at times bordered on the melodramatic lines, the comedy being the best liked of the act, as neither showed any symptoms of ever being an exponent of the drama, either by voice or action.

Allen Hughes was highly entertaining in his coin and card manipulations. The biggest part of the act was used for the coin manipulating, and Mr. Hughes had the audience guessing. He works swiftly and true, although last Friday afternoon one of the card tricks did get away from him, but this only served to delay him momentarily. Mr. Hughes should have had this field entirely to himself, and not been encroached upon by Barnes and King, as was the case.

This latter act was by no means a poor one, but it did not help either to have two acts with the same line on the same bill. One of the pair is a comedian, and his efforts were productive, as the audience was kept busy laughing. His partner is a magician, and after a few tricks gave his coin manipulating portion of the act, which he worked up very well with the aid of the comedian.

The Harmony Beaus and Belles, two ladies and two men, all possessors of nice voices, entertained well with songs, opening in colonial costume, singing a few songs of the older days. "When You Were Sweet Sixteen" was very well rendered. They closed, working in Spanish costumes, singing a medley of Spanish airs.

A capital horse act was introduced by Mile, Marguerite, who rides a beautiful white horse, which is a wonderfully trained animal. A ring is laid out, in which is placed four large pedestals, which the horse runs around, in and out, in pace style. A little pony is also used, and Mile, Marguerite gets a lot out of this fellow, too. The act was a novelty, and well liked by the large audience.

Marcia Lawson, a singing comedienne, offered some songs which earned her applause. Miss Lawson has also costumed herself nicely in Quaker costume, singing "I've Never Been Here Before." "Come Kiss the Blarney" and "I'd Rather Be in Peachland with a Peach Like You" also scored.

Makarenko Duo, in the richest kind of Russian costumes, sang a few of their native dances, and the man used his English to render "Oh, You Beautiful Doll," which he did favorably.

The bill for Dec. 18-20 includes: Glen Ellison, songs, recitations and Harry Lauder imitations; Fred and Buss Lucier, comedy musical act; Fitzgerald and Odell, the comedy duet; "A Horse on Father," a comedy sketch; Cooper and Riccardi, character and novelty entertainers; Beauverre, Reed and St. John, Colonial pastimes; the Nolans, bits of variety; Dumitrescu and Ghiran, comedy bar act; Winkler's Military Dancers, and the pictures.

Irving Place.—Direktor Amberg wished to "treat" his audience, and therefore presented Taifun, a drama by Melchior Lengyel, that has been played with enormous success in Germany, Austria and France. The contents are very sensational. Dr. Naokata Tokerao, a young but distinguished member of the Japanese legation in Paris, falls in love with Helene Larouche, a beautiful Parisian. Tokerao's associates in the diplomatic service are against this relation, fearing that same would lead to the betrayal of political secrets and finally Japan's degradation. As a means of ending this infatuation they persuade Tokerao that the girl is faithless. Dr. Tokerao is loath to believe this, but under the constant goading of his friends to let nothing get in the way of the great work it was his duty to accomplish, he resolves to break with the girl. He tells Helene that all is over between them, and she, very much enraged, turns upon him and denounces him and his people. Stung by this cruel criticism, he strangles her. The same evening he calls a meeting of his countrymen and tells them of his crime, and of his intention to confess to the authorities. For the honor of Japan, it is decreed, that Dr. Tokerao must finish the work set out for him, and that another and less important person shall bear the guilt at the time of the trial. All those present offer to take his place, and finally Hironari, a nineteen-year-old under secretary, is selected. At the trial Hironari is accused of the crime, and pleads guilty to the charge. Tokerao is a witness of this injustice to the younger, and unable to restrain himself, he rushes before the judge and describes in detail how he himself was the murderer. Neither judge nor jury are inclined to take his confession seriously, and so, after a short trial, the pseudo murderer is sentenced to seven years, while Tokerao goes free. He is at liberty now to finish his work, and after this is accomplished he begins a long struggle with his conscience, which finally results in his death. His associates express no pity at this untimely death, for he had accomplished his work for Japan, and did not matter.

As to the actors, it must be said that all the Japanese were as unreal as they could possibly be. Apparently not the slightest effort had been made to produce by the make-up the impression of seeing real Japs; most of the gentlemen did not even take the trouble to use a wig to have the straight, glossy black hair of these sons of Nippon; it is just those little things that help to bring out the desired illusion. Herr Erich Ehrhardt-Platen did not look any more Japanese than the rest of the players, but played his part well. Herr Orbert, as a drinking and lamenting writer, was rather coarse, but apparently pleased the audience just by this fact, as did Herr Berla in the part of a professor whose only aim in life is to get as much praise as possible for a book written by him after thirty years of study. The part of the Parisian cocotte, who does everything in her power to arouse Tokerao from his Japanese stolidism and calmness, only to throw him over when she has succeeded, was entrusted to Fri. von Pothy, who, although, from her appearance as well as her ability as an actress—not up to the requirements of this star role, was apparently anxious to come as near to the idea of the author as possible. At times her play was perfectly natural, while again she missed the intentions of the author completely. The cast:

Dr. Naokata Tokerao.....

Toyu Yoshikawa..... Felix Ehrhardt-Platen

Undoubtedly the stage manager will have to use his blue pencil very energetically, as at present the performance lasts until midnight, a fact which will hardly add to the success of the play.

MAGAZINE MEN OFFER A GREAT SHOW.

THE CLIPPER devotes little space to amateur performances, but it cannot allow the minstrel and vaudeville show offered by the Representative Club, at the Hotel Astor, on Friday night, Dec. 15, to pass without comment. The members of the club are the advertising representatives of the standard magazines and weeklies, and the show was written, rehearsed and presented without any assistance of a professional stage manager.

From the rise of the curtain to its final fallen was not a dull moment in the entire entertainment. Not one case of stage fright was noticeable, and if the writer (a member of THE CLIPPER staff) was not personally acquainted with the members of the cast, he would not hesitate to accuse the managers of the club of rigging in professionals. Indeed, the show made such an emphatic success that the officers are seriously considering the advisability of sending the show to several big cities that out of town advertising men may see it.

LOYAL TO OLD TIMERS.

The Old Timers' Show at Keith's Theatre, Boston, Mass., week of Dec. 11, playing a return engagement, the public feeling remained just as loyal as heretofore.

Crowded houses prevailed all the week, and each and every act on the programme met with the heartiest kind of approval. The Allen and Clark opened the show in the liveliest kind of fashion. Fox and Ward followed, with Lottie Gilson next. Then came Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, and now the "Grand Old Lady," Annie Yeamans. Then came Guy Williams, the German comedian. Then Wars and Curran, in "The Terrible Judge." The Magie Cline, "The Irish Queen," concluding, with an old time afterpiece, "Big Foot Wallace," in which the entire company took part, and was a scream from start to finish.

FIVE MATINEES FOR "BUNTY" CHRISTMAS WEEK.

The Shuberts and William A. Brady announce that there will be five matinees of "Bunty Pulls the Strings," at William Collier's Comedy Theatre, New York, Christmas week, beginning on Monday afternoon, Dec. 25. This will mean extra matinees on Monday and Friday, in addition to the regular matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Federal Film Co. Fire.

An electric bulb in the Federal Picture Film Co., which occupied the front of the third floor of a six-story building at Thirty-seventh Street and Eighth Avenue, New York, broke on the morning of Dec. 15, and the hot fragments ignited a roll of film. Girls who were employed there, dropped their coats and without trying to shed their coats and hats, ran to the door. They reached it just as the celluloid began to explode.

The fire spread with such rapidity that Deputy Chief Ross sent in a second alarm, owing to the flimsy character of the buildings in the neighborhood. The firemen managed finally to confine the fire to the third and fourth floors, although it seemed at first as if the entire building would be destroyed. The damage was about $5,000.

F. Prentice, Terre Haute; W. R. Deacon, Warsaw, and H. R. Cannon, Muncie; secretary, Frank J. Rembusch; Shelbyville; treasurer, Joseph Gavin, Indianapolis. The exhibitors were received by Andrew Smith, of the Capital National Bank, and addressed by M. A. Neff, president of the Ohio Exhibitors' League and the Moving Picture League of America, and C. M. Christianson, of Cleveland, O., national secretary of the league.

Demand for Foreign Scenes.

The demand for moving picture shows, especially those of the high grade, showing in Europe, Africa and Asia, is a remarkable feature of the Philadelphia season. Burton Holmes, Elmdorf and the Nox McCain series have all drawn capacity houses, indicating that the educational feature of moving pictures are scarcely but in their infancy.

New Films.

Edison.

"How Sir Andrew Lost His Vote" (released Dec. 22).—Through a group of amateur actors Sir Andrew is made to believe that a crime has been committed, and so loses his vote on an important bill in the House of Commons. Unfortunately for the conspirators their scheme miscarries. A high class, refreshing comedy. Posed by Marc McDermott, Chas. Ogle, Camilla Delberg, Mabel Trunnelle, Bigelow Cooper, Ethel Jewett, Joseph Levering and William West.

"Pat Clancy's Adventure" (released Dec. 23).—This story, taken from "The Shamrock and the Palm," one of O. Henry's humorous stories, tells how Pat Clancy enlisted, as he thought, to fight for the oppressed people of Guatemala, and found he was wanted for something very different. Pat, however, comes out ahead in the end.

"Papa's Sweetheart" (released Dec. 26).—A simple and appealing story. Through a young girl's startling resemblance to the portrait of her beautiful mother, her father, a widower, is saved from what would have been an unhappy marriage. Posed by Shire McDermott, Gladys Huette, Yale Boss, Edna May Welch and Elizabeth Miller. On the same date is "Modern Weapons for Fighting Fire, New York City," a short reel which shows how the horse-drawn apparatus is being replaced by automobiles, and the high pressure service at work. The latter is most sensational.

"The Stuff Dreams Are Made Of" (released Dec. 27).—Burlesque melodrama, through which the hero and heroine, the villain and villainess, go through the most awful adventures. The beginning and ending make the story plausible. Those who remember "Why Girls Leave Home" will find an even better treat in this. Posed by William West, Mary Fuller, Yale Banner, James Gordon and Laura Sawyer.

Nestor.

They are at first arrested, but by a clever ruse on the part of the girl's lover, escape, and are finally married after paying their ransom the gout, and the young pair receive the blessings of father. A remarkably clear film, well acted, with numerous laughable situations.

"The New Ranch Owner" (released Dec. 20).—This is a good Western film, telling a good story, and interesting from start to finish. The cowboys object to the English owner raising sheep, and plan to tar and feather him before finding the real owner. After this demonstration of strenuous life the Englishman sells out to the foreman and returns to his country.

"Desperate Desmond Follies Claude Eclair" (released Dec. 23).—These popular subjects seem to grow better with each release, and this one is no exception. Claude, Desmond and Rosamond have a thrilling time of it, with Rosamond and her noble hero coming out winners. The many perilous situations are made laughable by the ridiculousness of them.

Biograph.

"As In a Looking Glass" (released Dec. 18).—The wife pleads with her husband to leave off his drinking and care more for his family. Her endeavors are in vain, for he returns to their home in the evening intoxicated. Their little son is highly amused at the antics of his father, and the next day the children play at housekeeping, with the father views this from the next room, and it makes him so ashamed of himself that he swears off.

"A Terrible Discovery" (released Dec. 21).—Pick swears vengeance on the district attorney, and by disguising as an old woman gains entrance to the district attorney's home. His plan might have succeeded had it not been for a boy who was lowered from a window and summoned the police.

Thanhouser.

"The Tomboy" (released Dec. 19).—This runaway Western girl claim your admiration with her brave and independent spirit.

"Cinderella" (released Dec. 22).—From the most famous fairy story known, the change of the lizards to horses, the pumpkin to a coach, and the other transitions, are really marvelous.

Essanay.

"Winning an Heiress" (released Dec. 21).—Because Charley had read that so many heiresses elope with the chauffeur he decides to become one. He does, and in due time secures a position with a rich lady, but his fortune-hunting does not turn out well. On the same reel is "The Follies of Red Dugan." A strong drama, well staged, in which a judge's five-year old son saves him from death at the hands of Red Dugan, an escaped convict.

"The Millionaire Barber" (released Dec. 22).—The bluff of a barber, who poses as a millionaire, is soon called, but while it lasted he enjoyed himself.

"Broncho Billy's Christmas Dinner" (released Dec. 23).—The bad man had planned to rob the stage, but when it dashed by with no one in but a frightened girl, and Billy realized it was a runaway, he went to the rescue and stopped the horses after a thrilling chase. Then he swears off outlawry for good.

"A Story of the West" (released Dec. 26).—Another tale of outlaws. Jim Griggs escapes the sheriff, but later is caught by a prospector and his wife.

Reliance.

"Locked in the Vaults" (released Dec. 20).—A well told dramatic story, showing the thrilling rescue of a child from death in the air-tight vaults of a broker. Posed by Henry Walthall, Miss Lerner, Rosanna Logan and C. D. Herman.

"The Doctor's Dilemma" (released Dec. 23).—The doctor's wife loves another man, and when the doctor is called upon to attend the latter he at first refuses, but finally does his duty. The man then writes the doctor's wife, telling her of the instance, and all ends well. The leading roles are played by Henry Walthall and Jane Fearnley. On the same reel is "A Pair of Shoes," a comedy in which a man's haste causes his undoing. He buys shoes, but by mistake grabs up a box containing the remains of a broken doll.

Comet.

"The Man with the Camera" (released Dec. 22).—A rattling good comedy with a plot out of the ordinary, in which the police first unknowingly aid burglars, but later catch them.

"The Tie That Binds" (released Dec. 25).—A married couple quarrel and the husband leaves, vowing never again to see his wife and baby. The mother, however, uses the child as a medium to again bring back her husband.

"The Martyr."
Out of the ordinary is the Rex Co.'s coming release, "The Martyr." The story is by Lois Weber, leading lady of the Rex Stock Co. At this time of the year we rather expect glad tidings and great joy, but in "The Martyr" we see the sad side of life, the side of life that tells the mother of trials and disappointments. The year 1880 shows the family home, the eldest son married and just leaving to make a home of his own. In the evening the second son arrives in an intoxicated condition, and finds his poor mother sitting up for him. In 1890 the daughter is married and leaves home, and when the mother visits her it is plainly shown she is not wanted, except when the baby is ill. Then the husband and father dies and, batted from pillar to post, the poor, honest, loving mother, after depriving herself for years for those she loves, is finally compelled to seek the poorhouse. It is a very strong film, well staged and excellently acted.

Stops War Pictures.
Governor John K. Tener has placed a ban on all moving pictures depicting the alleged Italian-Turkish War atrocities, and in an order issued Dec. 13, notifies all State police to keep a close watch on theatres, and to stop any exhibitions against which there have been complaints.
An order issued by Thomas J. Zell, Chief of Police of Harrisburg, Pa., bars any pictures showing scenes of the hostilities in the foreign countries. In this section of Pennsylvania are a number of Italians, and there are also a number of Turks in business in various parts of Pennsylvania, and it is feared there may be trouble.

Fire in Union Square Theatre.
Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, had a fire in the cellar at 8 o'clock on the night of Dec. 17, and a good deal of smoke crept through the floor into the auditorium. When Manager George C. McDermott first noticed smoke, he ordered all lights turned off and the exits all thrown open, after assuring the large audience that there was no danger. Several hundred people remained wedged in the front entrance demanding money back, but police reserves cleared out the passageway. Besides the light and smoke, $200 is what the damage is assessed at. The house re-opened Dec. 18.

Maine Pictures at Washington.
Mr. Read, of "Raising the Maine" Film Co., is in receipt of a letter from the Secretary of War, at Washington, stating that the other officials of the U. S. Government are much interested in Mr. Read's pictures. This week, at the Belasco Theatre, Washington, these pictures and those of the late naval review in New York Harbor, with Admiral Togo's visit to America, will be shown.

New Ann Arbor House Opens.
The New Star Theatre, Ann Arbor, Mich., was thrown open to the public last week. It is one of the most beautiful motion picture theatres in this part of the State, and has a seating capacity of 800.

Goodwin in Moving Pictures.
It is announced that Nat C. Goodwin will appear in moving pictures.

No Film Shows in Schools.

Fire Commissioner Johnson, of New York, has ruled that there can be no more moving picture shows in schools until State laws have been changed. Mr. Johnson says that unless the very stringent regulations concerning booths from which the pictures are shown are observed in the slightest technical detail, he will not permit such exhibitions. An effort will be made to have the legislature, which meets two weeks hence, permit the giving of the pictures.

Champion's New Home.
Mark M. Dintenfuss, general manager of the Champion Film Co., has moved his offices to 145 West Forty-fifth Street. Mr. Dintenfuss is taking great interest in aeroplane films. Aside from those taken in the South, he has had some taken on Long Island in which Blanche Stewart Scott appears in flights. He also has some pictures of an aeroplane racing an automobile.

Theatre for Monroe Street.
G. D. Segal will build a two-story theatre for moving pictures, 413x99.7, at Nos. 153-155 Monroe Street, New York, from plans filed by Architects Shampain & Shampain. The cost is placed at $10,000.

William A. Williams will play leads for the Powers moving picture stock company. Mr. Williams is well known from the part of Tom Sawyer.

Mildred Holland and most of her old company will appear in a revival of "The Power Behind the Throne," which will be released by the Powers Moving Picture Co. Little Julia Surlay, starring with the Powers in "The Littlest Rebel," will play the leading part in the Powers new film, "The Nurse."

C. O. Baumann has returned from the Pacific Coast.
Florence E. Turner, leading lady of the Vitagraph Co., is now in California. After a short rest she will take part in some new Western stories.

P. A. Powers announces that he is in personal charge of his new Duplex studio. Mr. Powers says that the trade is getting tired of each new film being announced as the "best ever," and with the idea of changing this so far as the Powers films are concerned, he will take care of the publicity himself.

AT THE KINEMACOLOR THEATRE the pictures of the coronation will be returned to the bill Dec. 21, and continued until after the holidays.

ORPHEUM ORTHOGRAFS.

While in London, Martin Beck entered into an agreement with John Tiller for the exclusive American presentation of the Tiller Ballet over the Orpheum circuit. Mr. Tiller is recognized as the foremost ballet master in England, and is well known in America. The first pony ballet to be seen in this country was a production of the Tiller school, and the Eight Palace Girls, now on the Orpheum circuit, is one of his productions.
Mlle. Camille Ober, the petit Parisian star who scored an emphatic hit on the Orpheum circuit two years ago, has just arrived in New York on the Lusitania, for a return tour of the Orpheum circuit. Mlle. Ober has an entirely new repertoire of songs, and will undoubtedly repeat the emphatic success she scored on her previous visit.

AT EACH OF THE CITIES where Ada Reeve, the English serenade, has appeared during her Orpheum tour, the demand for a return engagement has been so great that Martin Beck has already opened negotiations for an extension of her tour. Mr. Beck hopes to persuade Miss Reeve to postpone her Australian trip long enough to repeat her original itinerary.
ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT dramatic stars of the so-called legitimate drama, Blanche Walsh, will be seen over the entire Orpheum Circuit in "The Thunder God," pronounced one of the best one act plays in vaudeville. Miss Walsh has not been seen in a part so admirably suited to her capabilities since her creation of the principal role in Count Tolstol's powerful drama, "The Resurrection."

Cecilia Loftus began her Orpheum Circuit tour at the Majestic Theatre, Chicago, Dec. 18. After the week there she goes directly to San Francisco to play the Orpheum Coast houses, with the more Eastern theatres to follow.
"MONTE CRISTO," in tabloid form, will serve the distinguished character actor, James O'Neill, as a vehicle for his initial vaudeville venture, which will be an Orpheum Circuit tour. In this presentation a company of ten players is required and four sets of scenery are used. Mr. O'Neill has appeared as Edmund Dantes, in "Monte Cristo," for nearly twenty years.

PORCHOT'S FLYING BALLET, with Mlle. Yvonne Baumer, premier aerialist, is an important Orpheum Circuit booking. The ballet is described as "The Act Beautiful," and differs from most aerial acts, as at the conclusion of the performance the premier leaves the stage and soars over the heads of the audience. Besides Mlle. Yvonne Baumer there are twenty-five other aerialists in the organization.
AMONG THE PASSENGERS on the President Lincoln, when she arrived on her last voyage from England were the Four Ritchies, who have gained abroad the reputation of pre-eminent cyclists. The Four Ritchies use over sixty different kinds of bicycles in their performance.

ANOTHER WELL KNOWN dramatic star to present an excellent one act play in vaudeville is Robert T. Haines. Mr. Haines is appearing in George Broadhurst's powerful playlet, "The Coward," and is shortly to be seen on the Orpheum Circuit.

ANOTHER NEW BROOKLYN THEATRE.

PLANS FOR A BAY RIDGE PLAYHOUSE NEARLY READY.

Brooklyn's newest theatre is to be located in the Bay Ridge section, at the Northwest corner of Forty-fourth Street and Fifth Avenue. The plans are almost ready for the builders, and the work of construction will be under way within a few weeks. It will be devoted to continuous vaudeville and motion pictures, and will form a link in the circuit controlled by the Eighty-sixth Street Construction Company, of which Sol Brill is the president.

The new Brooklyn playhouse will cost $100,000, and will be nearly as large as the De Kalb Theatre, after which, it seems from the plans, it has been modeled.
It will have a front of 88 feet and a depth of 143 feet, and will be two stories, of 43 feet, in height. It will be of brick and terra cotta. The stage will be 30 feet deep and 76 feet wide.

HORSE FALLS FROM STAGE.

"Cheyenne Days," the big Western sketch now playing around New York, was the cause of much excitement at the Bronx Theatre, New York City, Saturday, Dec. 16, when one of the bucking broncos slipped through the ropes and landed among the orchestra players. The bronco appeared a little confused by the cracking of a bass viol, which he demurred when he fell on it, but stood quietly and faced the audience. Then one of the performers vaulted down from the stage, grabbed the animal's halter and solemnly led him down the middle aisle to the street.

A GLANCE AT ACTS NEW TO THE METROPOLIS

BY HANK

Edmund Breese.

This sterling actor, supported by a very capable little company of six people, made his first bid for the favor of metropolitan vaudeville patrons at the Colonial Theatre at the matinee of Dec. 18.

His scene represents the editorial room, supposed to be located in this city, and prior to the entrance of David Lay (Mr. Breese), the city editor, the staff is busily employed in getting up "copy." Lay enters and the hustle begins to get the paper to press. A little comedy occurs here regarding the location of a big fire, but the "phone report of it" proves to be a hoax.

Then what is intended to be the big episode and dramatic feature of the playlet is brought into action. News comes over the phone that a steamboat upon which is an excursion of women and children, is afire in the river, and the office becomes active immediately in receiving reports of the disaster. Reports come in fast, and from the first news that one hundred lives have been lost, the number keeps increasing until the report comes that five hundred lives have been lost in the holocaust. Lay, in the excitement, has forgotten the fact that his wife and only child had gone on an excursion that day, and remembering the name of the steamboat company, and is horrified to learn that the burning boat is the one upon which his wife and child had departed in the morning. One of his staff is constantly at the "phone" getting reports of the disaster, and in the list of the lost ones are the names of Lay's wife and child. This proves to be an error, for after some very tense moments he receives a phone call from his wife who, it seems, had not gone on the excursion.

The playlet in the main is entirely too gruesome for vaudeville audiences, and up to the climax there is nothing to relieve its unpleasant theme and story. Mr. Breese was, of course, excellent as David Lay, and while he received four curtain recalls, perhaps in sympathy for the severe trial he had just undergone, and the fact that his wife and child had been spared to him, the audience still remembered these other women and children who were supposed to have lost their lives in the disaster.

The cast:
David Lay.....Edmund Breese
William Thomas.....W. T. Clark
Adams.....Bernard Randall
Frat.....Arthur Stein
Jim.....J. T. Elliott
Baldwin.....J. T. Elliott
Walsh.....C. Vaughan

The Davenport.

The Davenports, well known in the circus world, and rightly considered one of the best equestrian acts in the business, are at present seen in vaudeville, appearing last week at the Orpheum, Brooklyn. Both do some excellent work while their big white animal is in motion. Mr. Davenport fires rounds of applause with his feat of turning back some saults on the horse's back, and the ease with which he leaped from the floor to a standing position on the horse. The two together on the horse worked in impressive style, and were favorably received by the good sized audience that remained to see the last act on a strong bill.

A little clowning was also done, but this portion of the act could be easily dispensed with.

Henshaw and Avery.

Those well known and popular players, John E. Henshaw and Grace Avery, seen at the Fifth Avenue this week, present an act that is full of nonsense, but it is, for all that, laugh provoking. It is entitled "Strangers in a Strange Land," and the whole act is an excuse for these clever people to demonstrate their cleverness. During the course of the act Miss Avery wears two beautiful gowns and a suit of pink pajamas that showed her shapely form to advantage. Both Mr. Henshaw and Miss Avery sing and dance in excellent style, and their satire of "society" at a reception was received with laughter.

The act occupied the full stage, and occupied about twenty-five minutes.

Cycling Brunettes.

Despite their names, the Cycling Brunettes are two well known and clever people, and cycle riders, one comedy and the other straight. Some of the stunts they do are marvelous and were well worthy of the applause bestowed upon them on Monday afternoon, Dec. 18, at the Fifth Avenue.
The trick is a "cooker." While the man doing the straight is riding around in circles his partner makes a flying bound and lands right on the other's shoulders. It is a trick that requires great skill, and it was successfully accomplished on Monday matinee. The Cycling Brunettes, who opened the show, took the stage, of course, and their turn takes about ten minutes.

Haydn, Borden and Haydn.

While this trio has been playing on small time, they have changed their act so much that it can be safely considered as a new act. They came on very late at the Fifth Avenue on Monday afternoon, Dec. 18, and "cleaned up." They are a whole show in themselves, and they do everything well. Their playing on various instruments, including piano, their dancing and their singing, were all received with great applause. No matter who else may be on the bill, this trio need not worry, for they make good. They are all three handsome young men, well groomed and of excellent appearance. About eighteen minutes, in one.

MARCH 25 FOR V. C. C. BALL.

The Vaudeville Comedy Club has announced the date of its second annual ball as March 25, at Terrace Garden. Jack Mason will stage the spectacular effects, and judging from last year's successful surprise, it should be another elaborate affair.

COMING EVENT.

Manning and Butcher, of 1236 E. Douglas Street, Wichita, Kan., write the New York Clipper as follows: "Dec. 25, Can you recommend an agent who can book us a 'stork act' to appear at this little house next week? Positively must be a single, and very little singing. Prefer a male performer who will appear under the name of 'Little Joe.' Sincerely, MANNING & BUTCHER."

TANGUAY A RIOT AT THE BRONX.

Eva Tanguay, the cyclonic comedienne, scored one of the biggest hits of her career at the Bronx Theatre, Monday, Dec. 18. With new songs and costumes, "I Don't Care" Eva made such a hit that she had to respond to numerous curtain calls, and finally make a speech before the audience would let her go.

Arthur Salem and Company.

Arthur Salem and company presented at the McKinley Square Theatre Thursday, Dec. 14, for the first time on any stage, Mr. Salem's new act, which he then gave, under the title of "A Play of the West."

The scene opens showing the book-making stand at a Western racetrack, where there is scheduled for that day a race between cowponies owned by the different men around the town, and ridden by girl riders. The story is that of an Eastern fellow who is smitten by the beauty of a Western girl, who is in love with one of the men in town named Tom. The Easterner tries to make love to her, but she repulses him, and, for revenge, he buys a thoroughbred and gives it to one of the girls in the town and tells her to enter it in the race. Tom has bet all his money on his horse, and if she is beaten he is ruined, a thing that the tenderfoot is waiting for. A young woman, who owns the candy and cigar stand, tells Tom that she thinks there is crooked work going on, and that she will stake her all on his horse, and that they together will get the girl rider in the game and have the Easterner's horse lose the race. A bell is heard and they are off. Tom vividly describes the race up to the last quarter, and just as he says they are in the stretch the drop goes up and shows three real horses on the treadmill going at a rapid pace, and finally shows "Tom's horse" beating out the rest by a nose. Thus the sketch ends happily and the "villain" is defeated. The scenic effect is very fine, and the sketch in general is one of the best Western acts that has played around here recently, and the thrilling finish always gets the house. The time consumed was in the neighborhood of twenty-five minutes.

Mella Mars.

Mme. Mella Mars made her first appearance in America at the Winter Garden on Monday, Dec. 11. "Hank" saw her act on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 14. She came on immediately after the last act of "Vera Vio," which was about ten minutes to five o'clock.

Mme. Mars is a Viennese who comes to us with a brilliant record, but it cannot be said that she made a favorable impression at the Winter Garden. Her act belongs really to the past, and is not in a big theatre. She recites dramatic poems to the music composed by her husband, M. Bela Laszky, who also plays the piano accompaniment. She is a small woman, not pretty, but very magnetic. Her first number was "The Three Comrades," in which she sang in English, and then "Barbara Frietche." About eight minutes, in one.

"Ideal."

"Ideal" is the rather strange title chosen by a good looking and shapely young woman who has joined the list of female divers now on the vaudeville stage. She made her first local appearance on Monday afternoon, Dec. 18, at the Fifth Avenue, in a red costume, and while her act is very much on the lines of those showed here by others in the same line of endeavor, it was very interesting. At the writer, unfortunately, is not a swimmer, and is therefore not an authority on swimming, he cannot render a decision as to her claim printed on the house programme to the effect that she, "Ideal," is the champion lady swimmer and acrobatic diver of the world, but all that she did do in the course of her act was skillfully done. Judging from the applause given her at the close, "Ideal" pleased those in the audience who appreciated her act. Full stage, about ten minutes.

Charles Kellogg.

The statement that Charles Kellogg sings like a bird is not an attempt at slang. It means what it says. He appeared Dec. 18, at the Fifth Avenue. His act is well worth seeing. It cannot be called imitations, for he reproduces the notes of birds in a realistic manner. He is, as far as we know, the first human being to sing bird notes in public. We do not mean imitations of bird notes, but real, genuine bird notes. It is more a scientific exhibition than a vaudeville act. Mr. Kellogg announced from the stage on Monday afternoon that for nine months of the year he makes his home in the woods, singing to the feathered inhabitants of trees. The act is interesting, but we doubt if there is a place for it in the vaudeville field. About fifteen minutes is taken up, on the full stage.

"Flying."

At the Columbia concert, Dec. 10, Tate's "Flying" employed that well known comedian and his large staff of assistants in a series of aviator and scenes incidental to the going up of an aviator. A fountain pen causes some fun, also the manipulations of various contrivances attached to the machine. In the final test, Mr. Tate, as the aviator, discovers that there is no engine. Various visitors and hangers-on, including a pompous mayor, who is to be a passenger; a band, a boy on roller skates, a gasoline peddler, an insurance agent, a mechanic, and other characters all furnish amusement, and the aviator himself, nearly down and out, when the final explosion occurs, whereby he is hoisted to the flies, and comes down amid the wreckage. The scene shows a modern hangar on an aviation field, and the aviator is attired in the regulation togs.

Adelaide Norwood.

The magnificent soprano voice of Mme. Norwood was applauded to the echo, and on Monday afternoon, Dec. 18, at the Fifth Avenue, she was forced to give several encores. As every musical critic of note in America has paid tribute to her singing it is needless for THE CLIPPER to devote any large amount of space to her singing. It was flawless. She sang in English and German. Her gown was a wonderful example of the dressmaker's art. About ten minutes, in one.

BROWN MAKES A COUP.

Chris O. Brown, the general booking manager for the Sullivan-Conside circuit, put one over on the Eastern managers when he signed Daley and Buckley and their "Suffragette Barbers" act, to present their offering over his time. The skit is one of the funniest acts now playing vaudeville.

SPISSELL AT COLUMBUS.

Joe Spissell, with his new and original novelty acrobatic act, entitled "A Soldier's Dream," opened in this city, 18, on the Sullivan-Conside time. Chris O. Brown has booked this act over his time until the Summer of 1912.

MAKING GOOD IN THE EAST.

The Masqueria Sisters, who recently came East from a long tour on the Western circuits, are presenting their unique instrumental, singing and dancing act around this city, and have made a hit at every house they have played.

Joe Raymond, of the Darlings of Paris Co., is in New York, arranging for new costumes and other changes for the act.

Williams and Williams.

Williams and Williams presented their new piano act at the McKinley Square Theatre, Saturday, Dec. 16, and made a good impression on the patrons. The act opens showing an interior scene, with fine furniture spread about the room, and also two pianos with the sounding boards removed, showing the entire action of the piano. One feature of the act, or rather of the setting, is that the floor is bare, which is said, is left this way so as not to deaden the sound.

The man enters and gives a German monologue about his friend Schultze (or something to that effect), and then calls the woman, who is supposed to be his daughter, and tells her to call an auto to take them to the party his friend is going to have. Her exit gives him a chance to get to the piano, where he does some fine work, both in classical and ragtime playing. He again calls the woman in, and together they play Rubinstein's famous masterpiece, "The Fire-Fly," in which they use 1,580 keys in three minutes (which is some stunt), bringing down the house. They came back, and as an encore gave that "Peculiar Rag" and "Alexander's," the woman playing them straight while the man got in some fine obligatos.

Much of the dialogue could be cut out to advantage, as it would give more time for playing the instruments, wherein lies the ability of the performers. The time was fourteen minutes, on a full stage.

McConnell and Simpson.

The new playlet, "The Real Girl," written by Herbert Hall Winslow for Lulu McConnell and Grant Simpson, is not original as to plot, but it is a rather good comedy of one act, and gives Miss McConnell a chance to show how brilliant a comedienne she is. In our humble opinion this clever young woman has it all over some of the women on the stage who pose as fun makers of high degree. She appeared Monday afternoon, Dec. 18, at the Fifth Avenue.

Miss McConnell plays a dual role of two sisters, twins, one a shy country maiden, and the other an up-to-date New York girl, the kind that can take care of themselves everywhere, and at any time without the assistance of a husband, brother or man friend. The roles are naturally played by one another, and in her portrayal of them Miss McConnell is superb. Mr. Simpson has been given few opportunities by the playwright, but despite this he makes his role a most interesting one. They are assisted by Laurence Simpson, who plays a small role successfully. The one scene shows a parlor in a home, and about twenty-five minutes are utilized in the unfolding of the playlet.

Hugh McCormack and Grace Wallace.

This team presented on Monday afternoon, Dec. 18, at the Fifth Avenue, an interesting ventriloquial novelty in which they use six dummies. While some of the gags that they have been heard of before, the act got over last, and he was a real riot at the close of their act. Both of them are very clever ventriloquists, but they need a better line of talk. Miss Wallace, during the course of the act, sings and dances charmingly, and wears one of the most fetching bathing suits they have been heard of before. They close their act with a real riot at the close of their act, about two years old, and his efforts to entertain won the hearts of all. He is the "cutest" kid ever seen on the stage. The act carries its own draw, a rather poorly painted one, showing a bathing beach. About twelve minutes.

Edwin George.

Mr. George did so much "hiding" as a juggler, last Monday afternoon, at the Fifth Avenue, that we cannot say whether he is a "great" juggler or not, but as a comedian he is one of the best. He has a line of comedy talk that fairly bristles with wit. He started slow, but he got the audience at last, and he was a real riot at the close of his act. All of his gags are new, and most of them are really funny. Some of the juggling stunts are skillfully done, but, as we have said, it is with his comedy that he wins out. He wears a grotesque costume, but no fancy make-up, depending absolutely on his comedy talk for his laughs.

About fourteen minutes, in one.

Annie Purcell.

The first American appearance of Miss Purcell, an English vocalist of most pleasing personality and extremely graceful form, occurred at the Colonial, Monday, Dec. 18. Costumed in a of electric toilet, Miss Purcell sang five songs, all of which were of a refined order, and rendered with a most perfect enunciation.
Her voice is a pleasing soprano, and her debut was in every way an entirely auspicious one.
Her refined appearance, coupled with an excellent selection of songs, commanded the respectful attention of the audience, and this alone is something not always accorded to an act of straight vocalization these days.

John T. Murray.

At the Columbia concert, Dec. 10, John T. Murray, a tall performer, in a lilac colored dress suit, pranced about giving an exhibition of legmanism work, while relating several incidents in songs of pronounced English pattern and text. His "Walking in the Park," "Archibald" and "Up She Goes Again," were given with much vigor. From the same class of action in the various songs, the act was entertaining.

The Leitzel Sisters.

On Sunday, Dec. 10, at the Columbia, the Leitzel Sisters, a duo of comely performers on the posing rope, the trapeze and the flying rings, did some novelty work. The smaller of the pair finishing with forty revolutions while suspended by one hand. It was a neat and holding turn.

GRACE GEORGE AT MAXINE ELLIOTT'S THEATRE.

New Year's afternoon Grace George and the Playhouse company will begin a brief engagement at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, in "Just to Get Married," a new comedy of English social life by Cicely Hamilton.

This piece has been presented in Philadelphia and elsewhere, awakening a degree of interest and favor seldom bestowed upon a play of foreign authorship, unattended by the established recognition of New York. Several other plays are in readiness, having been fully prepared and in some instances tried out publicly during Miss George's early tour. The coming engagement at the Maxine Elliott Theatre will be preliminary to a long season at William A. Brady's Playhouse, beginning in the Autumn.

The success of "Bought and Paid For" in this theatre has been so extraordinary, and so far beyond the anticipations of the management, that it has been decided not to interrupt the run for the remainder of the Winter.

MISS MOHAWK LOSES DAISY.

Go-Won-Go Mohawk is nearly prostrated with grief, for she has lost one of her companions—her little red-roan "Daisy." The beautiful horse, who defended her so nobly on the stage against the outlaws. She was sixteen years old, and was well known all over the United States and England. She died Dec. 13, and is mourned as a friend and neighbor. John Watkins buried her on his property near Go-Won-Go. She died from a cold and pneumonia, after she was taken from the stable just at dusk.

Wm. H. Killey, who was the bugler for Go-Won-Go's company, played "Lights Out," which was very impressive, for "Daisy" came on the stage, ready to carry the mail at the bugle call. Go-Won-Go has one horse left now, "Buckskin," and she said when he goes she will never have another horse. The loss of them to her is too much to bear. "Daisy" was good, faithful and true. Go-Won-Go deeply mourns her loss.

"BEN-HUR" PIPE ORGAN TESTED.

The New Amsterdam Theatre's new pipe organ had its first hearing at an invitation concert on the afternoon of Dec. 15. The audience filled the auditorium and enjoyed a recital given by Charles Gilbert Spross and the singing of the four soloists, Shanna Cummings, Rosa Linde, Paul Daulton and Gardner Lamson. The programme included the introduction to the third act of "Lohengrin," the sextet from "Lucia," the overture to "William Tell," the prelude to "Pagliacci," Edgar Stillman Kelley's introduction to "Ben-Hur," and several other selections. The organ, which has been installed especially for the production of "Ben-Hur," is located under the stage, occupying a room about 20 by 10 feet. The keyboard is in the centre of the orchestra pit, in the location of the conductor's desk. For the production of "Ben-Hur" an orchestra of thirty pieces will be used in conjunction with the organ.

NEW NUMBER FOR "PEGGY."

A new musical number, to be called "What's Become of the Girls I Used to Know?" which will include the "Florodora" sextet, the "Hello People" from "Havana," and the military march from "Florodora," to be introduced in "Peggy," the attraction now playing at the Casino Theatre, New York.

LUNA PARK'S FIRE.

The fire which visited Luna Park, Coney Island, N. Y., on Dec. 11, destroyed the restaurant, the "tube ride," the "checker slide" and the studio where Frederic Thompson stored the scenery of productions which he is to take on the road.

PLAYERS' CLUB APPEALS AGAINST BARRY.

Notice of appeal to the Court of Appeals was filed Dec. 15, by the Players' Club, in the suit brought by Richard Barry, the writer, for reinstatement, in which the Appellate Division decided for Barry by a divided court.

MME. SEMBRICH IN ST. PETERSBURG.

Word received from St. Petersburg, Russia, Dec. 15, says that Mme. Sembrich had given her first concert of the season there before a great audience, which included the Duchess Helene and others from the Russian Court.

THE STAGE AS A PROFESSION.

There is an allurements about the theatrical stage which almost universally attracts the younger people throughout the land. In fact, there are very few grown folks who have not at some period in their lives cherished the idea that they could become shining lights on the stage, if they only had the opportunity to show what they could do.

This is because it looks so easy to act. The young people are attracted by the showy costumes, the gorgeous scenery, the dazzling lights and entrancing music, and they think it would be ethereal to become a part of it. It never occurs to them that it requires the hardest kind of work, under the most trying conditions, and, above all, talent of no mean order, to ever amount to anything on the stage. Furthermore, there are hundreds who fall for every one that succeeds.

It is true that some managers have the faculty of making excellent artists out of unpromising material, but the talent must be there—the manager cannot make that—and it is only after months of close study and arduous practise that a novice can hope to get a start, even at the bottom round of the ladder. After that it may require years of toil and hardship to get any higher. Some wealthy women have been known, by the liberal use of money and influence, to spring before the public in an important part, but very few of them succeed, and they are soon forgotten. The actor or actress who grows up in the profession is the most likely to succeed, and even if they do not reach the top of the ladder, they may find places on their way upward for which their talent is eminently fitted. Accident often plays an important part in making an actor or actress; the sudden illness of a lead, who has been understudied by one of the subordinates, presents an opportunity which, if the talent is there, may in a single performance elevate the subordinate to a position of prominence.

It would not be wise to discourage all of the youthful aspirants from making the attempt to get on the stage, but they should show evidence of having some talent before engaging them in any position on the stage.

The "stage as a profession" offers many opportunities for a successful and lucrative career as any other profession, provided the aspirant is properly fitted for it, as is evidenced by the hundreds of shining lights which now adorn the stage, while an army of men and women are earning a livelihood in the minor parts.

THE COLUMBIA CONCERT.

The house was well filled at both shows on Sunday, Dec. 17.

Rissner and Cook opened with a juggling act in a poolroom, with the colored porter asleep on a table. The juggling consisted of the manipulation of clubs, principally in finished fashion, with hands and feet. The porter also did a trick with the hoops.

Hathaway, Madison and Mack, two young girls and a robust man, had an entertaining act, opening with "Better Keep Your Eyes on You," then the girls, in neat black and white boys' suits, stepped some. Mr. Mack sang "Take Me Back to the Garden of Your Heart," and then did a French acrobatic dance, with one of the girls in red. The other girl, in white, danced alone. A coon song, "The Lazy Rag," kept all three busy for a good finish.

Mudge, Morton and Edwards showed their musical act, with Al Edwards as the colored comedian. They played handbells, clarinets, flute, concertinas, cornet and saxophones equally well.

Mr. Quick was there with the colored chalk and drew several satirical cartoons on topics of the day, including "A Christmas Dream, 1912," "Suffragettes," "Washington" and "American Passport to Russia."

"In Old New York" was a scene in a back-yard, where a sign painter with a good heart and a fine sense of humor helps to outwit an old Irish aunt by giving her niece and her lover an opportunity to elope. The sign painter was a fine character, well played, and the old Irish widow was a clever and natural piece of acting. The young man and the girl were also good.

Bailey, Hall and Burnett made a big hit by their rathskeller act, one of the boys keeping busy with a banjo, then a cello, and then again with a banjo. The pianist was an adept at his work, and the character singing was done by the little fellow. They sang "Ragtime Land," "Fiddle Up, Mr. Brown," and "I Met the Fellow That Married the Girl That I Was Going to Get," and were recalled repeatedly.

"Romeo and Juliet," the two monks, gave their exhibition of monkey sense, doing all of their work like human beings. They dined, wine, smoked, skated, bicycled, went driving, and undressed and went to bed. Every trick was a big hit.

Fanny Rice, buxom and smiling, stepped into her cabinet, and by aid of little mannikins, represented three characters in as many songs, and every gesture and every line of her songs went over. She sang "They Always Pick On Me," "Childhood," in a baby dress, and a suffragette song on votes for women.

The Herculano company of four ladies presented a neat appearance in white tights. The quartette includes a slight little girl, who worked in the centre with good effect, going through every trick without a hard breath. They went through a routine of back bending and contortion work, all equally well done.

The kinematograph film closed the show.

NEW THEATRE FOR IOWA CITY.

Wm. H. Englert, manager of the Bijou Theatre, Iowa City, Ia., has contracted with architects for plans for a $60,000 theatre and business block. Work will begin after the holidays. Manager Englert has met with marked success in the operation of a leased house, and he believes a theatre on his own ground, re-enforced by stores and offices, will prove even more profitable. He is one of the younger business men of the city, remarkably successful in other branches of commercial activity, but has broken into the amusement field in the past two years.

JEROME UHL RETURNS TO NEW YORK.

Jerome Uhl, who was formerly known in New York as an artist, returned to New York last week after an absence of four years in Europe, during which time he made his mark as a singer in opera, in Vercelli, Como, and other cities.

HOUDINI'S BEER BATH.

Harry Houdini, the handcuff king, did his act in a floating bath of beer in a kinematograph something new in the way of stage acts.

PORTO RICO FAIR OPENS.

The San Juan Times, Dec. 8, reports on the opening as follows:

"On every side last night could be heard words of praise for Capt. Clarence H. Tingle, general manager of the second insular fair, for the wonderful results of his efforts to give the people of Porto Rico a fair that would compare favorably with such exhibitions in the United States."

"Every one who was so fortunate as to see the big fair yesterday and last night pronounced it a success. It was complete down to the most minute details, and the results of Tingle's months of hard work and hustle were everywhere in evidence."

"Beachey's wonderful aeroplane work was the great attraction of the day. He made two flights during the afternoon, and his work was simply immense. If he gave the people of San Juan the impression on last Sunday that he could handle an aeroplane as no other man in the world can handle one, that impression was confirmed yesterday."

"Of course, the side show attractions were not overlooked. Frank Spellman, who brought the shows to the insular fair, is not unknown in Porto Rico, having been here in a similar capacity at the first insular fair. For months he has been writing and cabling about the attractions that he would bring for the present fair, and promised to make the side show features even better than those of last year. That he has made good his promise was evidenced by the great array of amusement features that were on exhibition yesterday and last night."

"Ferrari's Famous Wild Animal Show was well attended during the day and during the evening. Jack Bonavita, who is without question one of the world's greatest animal trainers, was on hand with the untamable lion, 'Wallace,' and he put 'Wallace' through some wonderful work that was greatly admired."

"The London Ghost Show, one of the leading attractions at the best amusement parks in the United States, was well patronized, and satisfied its patrons."

"Of course, a story of the second insular fair without mention of Mrs. Spellman and her great troupe of performing bears would be like the play of Hamlet with Hamlet left out. Mrs. Spellman made many friends during her visit to the first insular fair, and she and the bears were warmly welcomed back this year. They are just as clever as ever, and yesterday their tricks, as they performed under Mrs. Spellman's orders, were roundly applauded."

"And maybe the monkey music hall was not an attraction! Direct from Luna Park, these monkeys did things that showed them possessed of great intelligence. The monkey orchestra was great and deserved the applause it received."

"Darling's dogs and ponies were much in evidence, and proved one of the best patronized shows on the grounds.

"Princess Wee-Wee, the smallest human being of her age in the whole world, held several receptions during the afternoon and evening. She is only 17 inches in height, and is under a life contract with the Barnum & Bailey Shows, and was released by that great amusement concern specially to enable her to come to Porto Rico for the second insular fair."

JUDGE CHARLTON ORDERS FAIR AUTHORITIES AND POLICE TO LEAVE JOHN MARSHALL ALONE WITH HIS SHOW.

"Just before he left for the United States last Wednesday afternoon, Judge Paul Charlton, of the United States Court, issued an order directing Clarence H. Tingle, general manager of the second insular fair, the members of the board of directors of the fair, and the police department from interfering in any way with an amusement attraction that John Marshall, a Bayamon fruit grower, and who is interested in several cinematograph enterprises in Porto Rico, brought to San Juan for the purpose of exhibiting at the fair."

"Marshall, through his attorney, Joseph Anderson Jr., represented to the court that he went to the United States in October for the purpose of securing certain attractions for the fair, and did so after having been promised by the fair manager that he would be given space on the fair grounds. He represented to the court also that he had notified the general manager of the fair, by mail, that he had contracted for his amusement features, and was returning to Porto Rico with his show."

"Upon arrival in San Juan by the steamship Philadelphia, on Nov. 27, he stated to the court, he applied to the fair management for the space that had been promised him; but was told that there was nothing doing."

"He then rented space just outside the fair grounds, but the fair management, he stated in his application for a restraining order, endeavored to have him kept from using this space, and as a result he appealed to the court, which issued the restraining order. It is understood that Marshall will now sue the fair board for damages."

"The injunction order of Judge Charlton is very sweeping, and is directed against General Manager Tingle, John A. Wilson, John L. Gay, Luis Sanchez Morales and Eduardo Giorgetti, members of the insular fair board, and Robert H. Todd, mayor of San Juan, and 'such officers of police or policeman acting for you or in your behalf.' It prohibits them from interfering with the plaintiff's tents, platforms, stagings or floorings for presenting his amusements, entertainments and attractions to the public during the time of the insular fair of Porto Rico."

TREASURERS MAKE MERRY.

The Treasurers' Club of America, composed of the box office staffs of the leading theatres in New York City and Brooklyn, held their stag entertainment and supper on Saturday night, Dec. 16, at 11.30. The entire fourth floor of Louis Martin's Restaurant was turned over to the treasurers and their friends, and the occasion was far and away the most enjoyable this popular theatrical club has given in some years. Some of the vaudeville performers who took part in the entertainment were

MRS. KEELEY.

Mrs. Mary Ann Keeley (born Goward) was born Nov. 22, 1805, at Ipswich, Eng., and made her London debut at the Lyceum Theatre in 1825, in the title role of the operetta, "Rosina." In 1832 she was engaged at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden, appearing in "The Tatar Witch and the Pedlar Boy," "The Clutterbuck, or the Railroad of Love," and "A Nabob for an Hour." Season of 1833-34 she was at the old Adelphi Theatre, and the following season found her at the English Opera House. Season of 1835-36, which marked the beginning of her American career, she was engaged at the Adelphi Theatre, Mrs. Keeley appeared on the opening night, Sept. 28, in the burlesque, "The London Carrier." Robert Keeley (Mrs. Keeley's husband, whom she married in June, 1829), and Mr. Buckstone were in the cast. In the summer of 1837, Mrs. Keeley came to America, opening Sept. 19, at the Adelphi Theatre, in "The Tatar Witch and the Pedlar Boy." In "The Loan of a Lover" and "My Master's Rival," at the Old Park Theatre, New York City. During their engagement, which continued at intervals for the season, they presented "Nell Gwynne," "Maid and Magpie," "Bottle Imp," "Middle Maple," "The Inevitable," "The Sergeant's Wife," and other farces.

They returned to England in the summer of 1837. On their return Charles Mathews had joined Mrs. Keeley in the management of the Olympic Theatre, and Mrs. Keeley went with them for a short season, opening there in October, 1837, in "The Tatar Witch and the Pedlar Boy." In November, 1838, Mrs. Keeley returned to the Adelphi and played Smike, in a dramatization of Charles Dickens' "Nicholas Nickleby," with Mr. Yates and O. Smith in the cast. The following season, at the same house, she portrayed the title role in Buckstone's management, "The Tatar Witch and the Pedlar Boy." In 1841 she was at the Strand Theatre. In January, 1842, she took part in performances which inaugurated the Macready management of the Drury Lane Theatre, playing Nerissa, in "The Merchant of Venice."

She continued at the Drury Lane, under Mr. Macready's management, until 1844, when she and her husband took the management of the Lyceum Theatre, which, under their direction, became famous for dramatic parodies and burlesques. The house opened Easter Monday night, with "The Forty Thieves" as the attraction. Throughout that season a number of pieces were written especially for Mr. and Mrs. Keeley, were successfully presented.

On Dec. 20, 1845, she played Mrs. Peerybingle, in "The Cricket on the Hearth," which was dramatized by Albert Smith for this company, at the expressed wish of Charles Dickens. One year later another of Dickens' stories, "The Battle of Life," was dramatized by Mr. Smith for the Lyceum company, and Mrs. Keeley sustained the role of Clemency Newcome in the production.

In August, 1847, she retired from the management of the Lyceum and was engaged by Mr. Webster at the Haymarket. She continued at that house for two seasons, playing with Mr. Webster and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean. Later she went to the Princess Theatre. From 1850 to 1856 Mrs. Keeley was a member of the stock at the Adelphi Theatre. On Feb. 11, 1856, Mrs. Keeley played at that house in the first performance of Moore's farce, "That Blessed Baby," assuming the role of Mary Jane. At Drury Lane, in March, 1857, she played the role of Frank Outlands, in a revival of "The Cure for the Heartache." In 1859 she played in burlesque at the Lyceum Theatre.

After that year she rarely went on the stage, except on benefit occasions in the aid of a deserving brother or sister professional. Mrs. Keeley died in 1869, and her widow made her last appearance on the stage May 15, 1878, on the occasion of a testimonial benefit to Mrs. Alfred Mellon. On Nov. 22, 1895, she was tendered a testimonial in honor of the nineteenth anniversary of her birth. The affair was under the patronage of the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales and others of the royalty and nobility, and in the performance many of England's prominent players took part.

Few players of her day were better known on the English stage than Mrs. Keeley. She was a comedienne of rare ability, and the critics were wont to cover her with praise. To quote one writer: "She was intense and pointed, and concentrated into her repartees an amount of intellectual wit and 'devil' which gave such a feather to the shaft that authors must often have been surprised at the revelation to themselves of the force of their own wit. Eye, voice, gesture, and action, all were perfect. The maid of all work, the London 'slavery' was the kind of a role in which she particularly excelled, and it was in such characters she was mostly seen." Mrs. Keeley died in London, Eng., March 12, 1899, from pneumonia.

CIRCUS NEWS

From The Clipper, Beginning February, 1861

1865.—Continued.

Nat Austin, for some time connected with the S. O. Wheeler Circus, is about to leave that concern, and connect himself with the Hippodrome, New York, in place of Jas. M. Nixon. The Wheeler Circus will then consist of Eaton Stone and Charles Sherwood, equestrians; Penney and Goldie, gymnasts; John Foster and Wm. H. Ashton, clowns; Master Frank Ashton, contortionist; John G. Adams, Stone, Wheeler and others. The company presented Eaton Stone with a splendid whip Aug. 4, at Portland, Me. It was made by the American Whip Co., and is considered one of the best ever made in this country. H. W. Penney made the presentation in the ring, Mr. Stone replying in appropriate terms. The show is still in Maine.

Bailey's Circus and Menagerie is in Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 20, 21. Shappee and Whitely, gymnasts, are with this show.

John Wilson, the circus manager, was in San Francisco, July 10, making arrangements to show there.

Ross and Carlo and Fanny Brown, acrobats, returned to San Francisco, July 9, after a trip through Idaho Territory. It is reported that they were each more or less injured by an accident which occurred while on their way from Oregon to the Boise country. They were violently thrown from the ring, the wagon when descending a hill to the Grand Ronde River.

Lee and Ryland's Circus, going to Idaho overland, by way of Humboldt, lost most of their horses, stolen by Indians, and were in much tribulation.

Lionel Howes, brother of Seth B. Howes, was drowned in attempting to cross a swollen stream near Elmira, Mo., Aug. 1. Three horses were also drowned at the same time.

One of Dan Rice's elephants got mad in Indianapolis and broke into a graveyard and destroyed gravestones, monuments, shrubbery, etc. He was finally secured without injuring anyone.

Cook's Dogs and Monkeys, while traveling through Downsville, Cal., in their wagon, were upset and rolled down an embankment, fetching up against a tree. The driver of the van was sound asleep, but did not remain so after his gentle slide down hill. The animals were hurt.

By the arrival in this city of Lorenzo Maya, from Mexico, we learn that Chariot is at present building a very large amphitheatre at Puebla, and will have it ready for occupancy in time for next season. This is the third building of the kind that Mr. Chariot has erected—one at the City of Mexico, one at Havana and the one at Puebla. Performers who engage with Chariot calculate on a year's engagement.

De Haven & Co.'s Circus arrived at Louisville Aug. 6, on board the steamer Jeannette Robinson. The show was advertised to show at Madison, Ind., 7. The distance from Alton to Madison being over one hundred and fifty miles, only an afternoon show was given at the former place, in order to reach Madison in time to perform. In consequence of the rain, Mlle. Louisa, who is with De Haven, did not attempt to accomplish her feat of ascending a wire extending from the ground to the top of the centre pole, outside the canvas, which was announced to take place. For the same reason Monsieur Bliss' feat of walking the ceiling was omitted. But other acts were performed in their place.

Stone and Rosston's Circus is going through Vermont with a rush, and doing a stirring business. Notwithstanding it was said no show could travel in Vermont and give equestrian exhibitions, they are doing that same thing.

Gardner & Hemming's Circus exhibited at Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 19.

The old National Circus, Boston, recently occupied by S. O. Wheeler's Circus, is to rent. We have been requested to publish the names of the parties who presented Eaton

Stone with the whip. They were as follows: Nat Austin, W. H. Ashton, H. W. Penney, Geo. Goldrie, C. Sherwood, John Adams, William Woods, Chas. Sutton, D. Sutton and H. Jefferson.

Lent's Equestrianism was at Peoria, Ill., Aug. 11, and Elmwood 12.

The Union Combination was to perform at Peoria, Ill., 15.

Dan Rice's Menagerie is billed for Millersville, O., Aug. 24; Wooster 25, and Medina 26.

Thayer & Noyes' Circus and Menagerie performed at Russellville, Ind., Aug. 19. Elmwood 21 and Hopkinsville 22. Mr. Noyes, the champion leaper, went over twelve horses at Harrodsburg, Ky., lately. Business has been first rate.

Yankee Robinson's Show is doing well in Missouri, and shows at Jefferson City, Aug. 29, 30.

Van Amburgh's Menagerie was at Cleveland, O., Aug. 14, 15, and drew immensely. The business of this show the present season has been without precedent.

Circuses are very thick in Ohio just now. Howe's Circus was at Cleveland, Aug. 21, 22, and Dan Rice's 28, 29. Metcalf, and Gardner and Hemming are also in the vicinity. The former showed at Akron 15, and the latter at Canton, 14. Howe's gives a good show, and is doing a good business. His principal cards are the Arabs, Charley Fisher and Lucy Watson, the latter a fresh little English girl, who rides a dashing act. Pierce handles the lions since Crockett's death.

The Champs Elysees Circus showed at Columbus, O., Aug. 23, 24.

Yankee Robinson has found Missouri a hard road to travel with his circus company, not that the business has been bad, but the roads have been in a horrid condition. A member of the company, writing from Kansas City, says: "In twenty years' experience I have never seen the like. We have waded, swam, sunk, etc., and are all worn out. Our trunk wagon is sixty miles back in the bottom of a river. We undertook to swim it, but the rope broke and away she went. We have not more than half the stands, and worse have been raided till the bridges, etc., that were here are all gone, and roads badly washed. The rain is as bad this week as it has been any time this season. We are working Eastward and expect to get on dry land one of these days."

Manager John Wilson commenced circus performances on the lot adjoining the International Hotel, San Francisco, Aug. 3. The company consisted of Ella Zoyara, Jas. Cook, Ross and Carlo, Wm. Worrell, Mlle. Eloise, John Barry, Master Austin, La Petite Genma, Miss Amnera, Geo. Peoples, Master Tomasso, Senor Orlando, Master Henri, Cook's dogs and monkeys.

Thayer & Noyes' Circus and Menagerie has been raking in the greenbacks in the Western country.

Robinson & Deery's Circus performed at Columbus, Mo., Aug. 24.

Seth B. Howe's Circus pitched their tent at Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 5.

Palmer's Circus had a warm time in Clinton, Ia., Aug. 21. A fight occurred between the some returned soldiers and members of the show, resulting in the death of six representatives of the show and one soldier.

Gardner & Hemming's Circus showed at Martinsburg, Va., Sept. 1, and Williamsport 2.

Palmer's Great Western Circus was at Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 25, and remained there four days.

James M. Nixon's New York Circus was in Brooklyn Aug. 28-31.

The Champs Elysees Circus was at Cincinnati Sept. 4-7, and Covington, Ky. 8.

Chas. Warner, well known by every member of the equestrian profession, died at San Miller's Hotel, Philadelphia, Aug. 30, aged thirty-four years.

His remains were interred Sept. 3, from the hotel, and deposited in a vault in Ronaldson's Cemetery, and were taken the latter part of the week to Great Barrington, Mass.

Lent's Equestrianism exhibited at Logan, Ill., Sept. 5; Springfield, 6; Petersburg, 7.

Dan Rice's Menagerie performed at Coshocton, O., Sept. 6; Dresden 7, Zanesville 8.

De Haven's Circus performed at Covington, Ky., Sept. 8, Fulton 9, and Newport 11.

A PLEA FOR MINSTRELSY.

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 14.

"DEAR CLIPPER:—I read your masterly editorial in the current issue on 'Minstrelsy Then and Now,' with mingled feelings of pleasure and regret. Pleasure because you gave this delightful form of entertainment such consideration, and regret to think that New York City, which on one occasion had three permanent minstrel companies in as many consecutive blocks, is and has been for so many years without its permanent minstrel organization."

"Lew Dockstader was the last to try it here, after three years of varying success, but that, dear CLIPPER, is precisely twenty-two years ago. It is true that the late Alex. Comstock subsequently attempted to revive it in the same house, but the venture lasted only a few weeks."

"Your query, 'Why is it that more cities cannot or do not support a permanent minstrel show?' is a most pertinent one."

"Minstrelsy received its severest blow when various comedies, farces, comic operas, etc., borrowed its best known acts, 'business' and situations."

"Present day theatregoers who have never really seen a real old time minstrel show, are familiar with the 'Slippery Day,' 'Masquerade Ball,' 'Black Statue,' and numerous old time acts, a memory which the principal features of 'Charley' White, 'Andy' Leavitt and others, that had their inception in negro minstrelsy. But not content with taking the dialogue, the astute managers returned and took the players who made these skits famous. 'Joe' Murphy laid aside his bones and appeared as 'Kerry Gow.'"

"Francis Wilson served his seven year partnership with Jimmy Mackin, and practically began his career over again when he accepted a position to play subordinate roles at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia."

"The team of Schoolcraft and Coes became but a memory when dear old Lulu Schoolcraft became one of the principal features in 'The City Directory.' Charley Reed forsook burnt cork and became prominent in the same organization."

"Few of the present day recall Seamon and Sommers, a great black face song and dance team, but it was that same Charley Seamon who so quietly sang 'All Bound Round With a Woolen String,' in 'Way Down East.' Two of the cleverest performers in the support of Marie Dressler, in 'Fille's Nightmare,' are John and George (George, another name for their minstrel schooling has made them so, and James Gorman, as a producer, is always in demand for the same reason."

"The Girard Brothers separated about thirty years ago, and the firm of Donnelly and Girard acquired a national reputation, in 'Natural Gas.' John and Rice was a black face performer for more than fifteen years; Hallen and Hart began their careers as burnt cork artists also."

"Andrew Mack and Chauncey Olcott were each prominent minstrel ballad singers before achieving prominence in dramatic drama."

"The list is long and could be supplemented by many names, such as Barry Maxwell, Geo. M. De Vere, Johnny Mayon, Jerry Cohen, Tom Lewis, Chas. E. Evans and scores of others, not forgetting the only Willis P. Sweetman, the most finished black face artist before the public."

"If it were possible to amalgamate all of the performers herein enumerated, we would have the nucleus of a minstrel show the like of which has not been seen for many, many years."

"Some day New York will come into its own and have a permanent minstrel organization—and I want to do the press work."

"With all good wishes, I am, yours sincerely,

EDW. LE ROY RICE."

FRANK DUMONT ON ORIGIN OF MINSTRELSY.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 28, 1911.

EDITOR OF NEW YORK CLIPPER.

"DEAR SIR:—A recently acquired file of bills from the collection of Charles N. Mann proves beyond a doubt that Frank Brower, Dan Emmett, Dick Daly and Billy Whitlock were the first four minstrels, or, rather, the originals of that style of entertainment. They claimed to have given their first entertainment for the benefit of R. W. Pelham, at the Chatham Theatre, Jan. 31, 1843. I have always credited these four with the origin of minstrelsy as the originals and introducers of that entertainment."

"My bills just acquired disproves this claim beyond a doubt. I have the original bill of Jan. 31, 1843, announcing R. W. Pelham, Dick Daly, Dan Emmett, Brower, Whitlock and Pelham."

"All that these four claimed was a series of banjo playing, dancing, old time songs and bones (no tambourine being used or announced). I have a bill of the Olympic Circus, Philadelphia, Tuesday, Dec. 20, 1842, which announced an extravaganza of the Ethiopian school by the popular Hoyt, talented banjo player; Wm. Chestnut and the great John Diamond, king of all darkies, in songs, dances, banjo playing and bone solo."

"Here are four in a minstrel circle, in 1842. Street Theatre), Wednesday evening, Jan. 4, 1843, which announces negro singing, dancing, bones and banjo playing, by Frank Whitaker, Bob Williams, Tom Vaughn and Master Bob Edwards."

"Here are four doing exactly what Emmett, Brower, Whitlock and Pelham claimed as an original offering Jan. 31, 1843."

"The claim of the four obscure but none the less popular performers antedating the performance given in the Chatham Theatre, Jan. 31, 1843, is worthy of record, and THE NEW YORK CLIPPER is the first to receive it. It will prove an interesting item for future reference and a valuable record for scrapbooks. The Tom Vaughn on the bill is the same who joined E. P. Christy in 1845-46, and who with Earl Pierce, were the banjoists of his troupe. The bill proving the claim of Messrs. Vaughn, Whitaker, Bob Williams and Master Edwards is at the disposal of THE CLIPPER for vindication."

"I am yours very truly, FRANK DUMONT, Manager Dumont's Minstrels, Ninth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia."

[NOTE:—THE CLIPPER is of the opinion that the performance mentioned above, of Hoyt, Chestnut and Diamond, on Feb. 20, 1842, was a black face specialty act, introduced in a circus bill, and could not be regarded as 'minstrel' performance. Black face acts were produced many years previous to the date mentioned. The performance of Jan. 31, 1843 (according to the announcement published on that day), was a benefit for the 'Blind Boy,' a 'negro' dancing, concluding with 'Black Raven of the Woods.' This does not appear to have been a 'minstrel' performance.]

At the Bowery Amphitheatre, Monday eve, Feb. 6, was announced 'First Night of the Novel, Grotesque, Original and Surprisingly Melodious Ethiopian Band, entitled THE VIRGINIA MINSTRELS,' in a musical entertainment, combining the Banjo, Violin, Bone Castanets and Tambourine. This was a minstrel performance, and we believe it was the first time a band of musicians announced themselves as minstrels."

At the Bowery Amphitheatre, Feb. 9, 1843, was announced 'Benefit of those eccentric and Original Musical Geniuses, the Virginia Minstrels'—Emmett, Whitlock, Pelham and Brower. This minstrel band opened at Logan on Jan. 19, 1843, when they played four weeks.—Ed. New York Clipper.]

MINSTREL MUSINGS.

NOTES GATHERED AT RANDOM.

BY DICKINSON VAN VALKENBERG.

There seems to be a revival of the male and female minstrel.

Duncan, an old favorite, will, at the expiration of his present season, April 1, go under canvas.

Dumont's Theatre, Philadelphia, the only permanent home of minstrelsy in this country, is enjoying a prosperous season in its new abode. It is the intention of Manager Frank Dumont, at the expiration of his Philadelphia season, to take a flyer through the South, where George Wilson, the leading comedian, is well known.

Dan S. Fishell's "Princess Minstrel Maids," at the Princess Theatre, St. Louis, are enjoying a record breaking business in the Missouri metropolis, where Manager Fishell is disporting his patrons with something entirely new in the form of burnt cork entertainment. The company includes: Jimmy Wall, one of the late comedians of Quinlan & Wall's Imperial Minstrels; Curt Jones, Bob George, Janet Adair, Maida Nensel, Hazel Hickey, Lulu Moore, Virginia Grey, Hattie Foley and Carmen Mayer. The company is in its fifteenth week, and at the end of the Princess season, an extended tour will be made through the big vaudeville houses of the West.

In dear old Columbus town (Ohio), this week, there's not a dull moment, so to speak. Al. G. Field, who is known wherever the English language is spoken, and his merry, jangling minstrel bunch of a half hundred, are holding sway, and the keys to the "slow city" have been thrown away. ## OUT OF TOWN NEWS

Boston, Mass.—There is little doing this week, that is from a theatrical viewpoint. One prominent theatre is closed for the week one until Wednesday, and another renews operations Friday. In all one might call it a split-up week. However, it is hard to expect much the week before the big event of the year. Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe, at the Shubert, and Dorothy Donnelly, in "Princess Zim-Zim," at the Plymouth, are the prominent newcomers for the week. Christmas Day we are to receive presents in the shape of many plays new to us.

Shubert (Wilbur Shubert Co., mgrs.)—E. H. Sothorn and Julia Marlowe are here for a fortnight, in Shakespearean repertoire. First week: "Taming of the Shrew," "Macbeth," "Twelfth Night," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Merchant of Venice," "Hamlet" and "As You Like It." The company surrounding the two principals show evidence of being carefully chosen for their difficult parts. To follow is William Faversham, in that comedy of modern life, "The Faun."

Plymouth (Fred Wright, mgr.)—For the first two days of this week the house is dark, but on Wednesday "Princess Zim-Zim" begins an engagement, with Dorothy Donnelly as the star and John Barrymore as assistant in the star line. The drama is a "vivid moving picture of the peculiarly vigorous life at 'oney Island.' Madame Simone had a couple of good weeks.

Colonial (Rich. Harris & Frohman, mgrs.)—"The Pink Lady" is now in her second week. The lady has completely captivated Bostonians, and it looks as if the splendid show is to be with us for many weeks. It would be impossible to state just what the business has been, it has been so large. The final thing to be said—"It has caught the town."

Tremont (Jno. B. Schoeffel, mgr.)—The merry musical comedy in which Ralph Herz is exploiting, "Dr. De Luxe," will leave the Hub City after current week. It has met with favorable success. Next to come is Eddie Foy, who is to make merry in a musical play called "Over the River."

MAJESTIC (Wilbur Shubert Co., mgrs.)—"Everywoman" now in its sixth week, has but one more week to stay. The play has pleased the "masses and the classes." On New Year's Day "Baby Mine" will be seen for the first time in this city.

HOLLIS STREET (Charles J. Rich, mgr.)—The third and last week of Charles Cherry, in the merry Hungarian play, "The Seven Sisters," began Dec. 18. "The Concert" is to follow for a three week's engagement.

PARK (Rich. Harris & Frohman, mgrs.)—Dec. 18, the last four weeks of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" began. Current is the thirteenth week. A Philadelphia engagement has been twice postponed, and a further extension of the run here is impossible.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE (Henry Russell, mgr.)—The operas for the current week: "Tosca," "Lucia," "Otello" and "Mignon." Mme. Tetrazzini failed to sing on Friday of last week on account of a cold, and disappointed a capacity house.

BOSTON (Harris & Frohman, mgrs.)—After seven weeks of excellent business, "Ben-Hur" departed for other climes. The house is dark this week, but will re-open Christmas Day with "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." In the cast will be Charlotte Walker, W. S. Hart, Burton Churchill, George Woodward, Richard Sterling, Willard Robertson, Lillian Dix, Alice Lindahl and Cyrus Wood.

CASTLE SQUARE (John Craig, mgr.)—For three years past Mr. Craig's holiday productions have been a feature of the theatrical season, and this year's offering promises to be more popular than ever. "The Wizard of Oz" is the piece. The theatre is closed until 22, in order that further rehearsals may be carried on.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE (Geo. W. Magee, mgr.)—"East Lynne," the famous old drama of love and jealousy, is the card this week. The play still retains its old time appeal. "The Two Orphans" next week.

GRAND (Robt. Janette, mgr.)—Seven weeks of "Mutt and Jeff." This is an unusual run for this house, as short engagements have usually been the policy.

KEITH'S (B. F. Keith, mgr.)—Mason, Keeler and company head the bill current week. Others are: Kate Ellmore, assisted by Sam Williams, Colonial Septette, Asahi Japs, Wilbur Mack and Nellie Walker, Wilson Bros., Sayton Trio, Jacob's Circus, and Murphy and Francis. Old Timers' Week brought out the largest houses of the season.

HOWARD (G. E. Howard, mgr.)—Whallen & Martell's Kentucky Belles are burlesquing here this week. Howard's own features include: Cora Livingston, world's champion female wrestler; Louis Dacre, Venus on Wheels; Les Valadons, Verdi Trio, Manhattan Newsway Four, Christine, Dolly Marshall, and the Howardscope.

GAFFY (G. H. Batcheller, mgr.)—Gallagher and Shean offer their Big Banner Show week of Dec. 18. The burlesques are good and the olio introduces some splendid vaudeville features. As was to be expected, Dave Marlon and his Dreamland Burlesquers attracted house capacity, and every performance last week. Bon-Ton's 25, with Al Reeves' Beauty Show to follow.

CASINO (Cas. H. Waldron, mgr.)—Manchester's famous Cracker Jacks hold forth current week. The girls are pretty, can sing, dance and pose, and the comedians are not found wanting. Runaway Girls next week, and Jan. 1, Bowery Burlesquers.

NATIONAL (George Ryder, mgr.)—The big feature is Chinko, the sensational boy juggler. Second and last week of the Irish Singers, O'Brien, Kyles, Linton and Lawrence. Van Hoven, Hart and Dunlap, the Dorlans, Clare and West, and the Geers.

ORPHEUM (Victor J. Morris, mgr.)—Rose Washburn, Makarenka Duo, Plofti, Coogan and Bancroft, Conboy and Wayne, Housely and Nicholas, Three Girls, Warren and Sears, Loretta Le Roy, the Goomans, Al Ripon, Black and Jones, Ward, Clare and Ward, Claude and Marion Cleveland, Shields and Gale, and Stern and Simmons.

LOEW'S SOUTH END (Louis M. Boas, mgr.)—Loretta Le Roy, the Goomans, Al Ripon, Black and Jones, Ward, Clare and Ward, Claude and Marion Cleveland, Shields and Gale, Stern and Simmons, Rose Washburn, Makarenka Duo, Plofti, Coogan and Bancroft, Conboy and Wayne, Housely and Nicholas, Three Girls, Warren and Sears.

AUSTIN & STONE'S (John C. Patrick, mgr.)—Owing her drawing power, the fat woman, Ouellette, has been held over for another week. Other features in the hall: The Royal Troupe of Cingales, Josephine Lambert, and others. In the theatre: Cassie French and her Florodora Girls, Tenny, Flynn, Lewis and Green, Jennie De Haan, Ferguson Sisters, Margie McDonald, Ray Ward, Bettie Earl, and motion pictures.

HUB (Joseph Mack, mgr.)—This week: Milano Duo, Nathan and Mann, Travers and Lawrence, Clayton, Drew Players, James Corvency, and the Ternellos.

WASHINGTON (F. G. Collier, mgr.)—Barton and Fee, Marlon and Darrell, Harris and Pierce, Walters and La Rue, Lillian Carter, and William Leveaux are the entertainers this week.

OLD SOUTH (F. G. Collier, mgr.)—The acts week of 18: Kimball and Donovan, Hearn and Rutter, Paris Brothers, Ginger Trio, Chas. and Grace Von Smith, Johnson and Gilson, Alice Melvin, and Ben Hart.

PASTIME (Mr. Murphy, mgr.)—Gerard Brothers, Joe Daniels, Comique, New, Tony Walters supply the show current week. Bowdoin Square (J. E. Comerford, mgr.)—The headliner this week is Don Fulano, the wonder horse, who reads, writes and spells. The remainder of the show is furnished by: Prof. L. A. Reine and company, Mackie and Walker, Unfield and Goguin, Broe and Maxin, and Johnnie Kelly.

PURITAN—The Bicknells, Bert Spears, Dan Haley and Stewart and Hall are scheduled for the week.

AFTERMATH—Customary changes in pictures and songs at the Bijou, Uman, Unique, Apollo, Liberty, Puritan, Comique, New, Palace, Beacon, Star, Scenic Temple, Zenon Temple, Orient, Winthrop Hall, Olympia, Norfolk Hall, Roxbury and the Imperial.

"Pinafore" is coming to the Shubert in the near future. The Klitties Band of Canada gave another concert at the Boston Theatre, Dec. 17. This is the last week of the coronation pictures at the Tremont Temple.

This will complete one of the most remarkable continuous exhibitions ever held in Boston. "Bill" Daly, brother of the late Dan Daly, and well known in the theatrical and sporting world, is seriously ill at his home in Revere. All the local vaudeville and picture houses give Sunday night concerts, and do a big business.

Mr. Moore, one of the employees of Keith's theatre, recently put on show at the Soldiers' Home, Chelsea, Mass., and it was such a success that all the local papers lauded the performance as something out of the ordinary for amateurs. Mr. Moore was the hit of the show in an impersonation of "Honey Boy" Evans.

Milford, Mass.—Music Hall (J. McGlinchess, mgr.) Agusta Perry Stock Co. full week. Bill's Prince of Wales, the Green Wilson, Marie Rostelle, Bates and Keville, Sadie Rodgers, and Billy Kincald, with motion pictures.

NOTES—The Yearly Symphony Concert Co., the society event of the year, was greeted by a packed auditorium Dec. 12, and was a treat to music lovers. The singers: Leverett B. Morris, basso; Eugene Birg, soprano; Arthur Hadley, soloist; Anna B. Stowe, soloist, and Gustave Strube, conductor, with a full orchestra of symphony players.

Minister Co., who has been in retirement at his home here with an injured knee, will leave here Dec. 26 for Silver City, N. Mex. to manage the theatre there, which is owned by his mother, a retired actress.

Walter Chafin, the comedian, has returned to his trade temporarily. Eddie Erickson writes that he is in upper New York State with his own company and is doing well. Some parties from New York City have been prospecting in the different towns in this vicinity to locate a few more links in a chain of motion picture houses.

They looked the Lyceum Theatre over and had a long conference with the agent for the property, and conferred with a local builder as to alterations.

Fall River, Mass.—Academy of Music (Geo. S. Wiley, mgr.) Clark's Runaway Girls Dec. 21-23, Phelan's Musical Comedy Co. 25, 26, "The Commuters" 27, Al Reeves' Beauty Show 28-30.

NOTES FROM SONGLAND.

J. FRED HELF CO. NOTES.

The Temple Quartette, who have scored a triumph with "Lord, Have Mercy on a Married Man," are making an even greater success with "The Chicken Rag." Ralph Mayo has made a strong impression with that high class number, "Love is the Only Thing in Life." "Mac" Carter, a well known Chicago entertainer, has scored a pronounced hit in the South with "The Chicken Rag" and "Lord, Have Mercy on a Married Man." "The Chicken Rag" has been added to Edwards, Ryan and Tierney's repertoire. Spook's Minstrels, who sang "Gee, But It's Great to Meet a Friend from Your Home Town," with fine success, are making a hit with "The Chicken Rag." S. E. Rose's interpretations of "Lord, Have Mercy on a Married Man," "When the Old Oaken Bucket Was New" and "The Chicken Rag" are always enjoyed. "Beautiful Love" brings Raines and Raymond many "I Am." Harry E. Prince, with Guy Brothers' Minstrels, uses "I Am Lying for the Old Days, Marguerite," with much success. "Lord, Have Mercy on a Married Man" is a big encore producer for the Mortimers, on the Pacific Coast. James and Jeffers are using "Beautiful Love" and "Love is the Only Thing in Life" as their featured songs. Lilla Brennan, with the Merry Madens Co., continues to score solidly with "Texas Tommy's Dance." "Hands Up" is Mazie Crosby's biggest applause winner. Jack Manly's rendition of "When the Old Oaken Bucket Was New" is warmly applauded. The Roselles are singing "Hands Up" and "Wanted, a Harp Like the Angels Play," with success. Laura Wyble's rendition of "The Chicken Rag" brings her much applause.

WILL ROSSITER GOSSIP.

"Mammy's Shufflin' Dance" is a gatherer of encores for Adler and Arline, now playing the S. & C. time. Will Goodall and Marie Craig report excellent success with "Let's Make Love While the Moon Shines." Sidney Grant has added "Mammy's Shufflin' Dance" to his song repertoire. Charlotte St. Elmo is singing "Let's Make Love While the Moon Shines," to repeated recalls. The Keene Trio are using eight numbers from the Will Rossiter catalogue, their feature song being "I'd Love to Live in Loveland With a Girl Like You." Nonette, "The Singing Violinist," is making a feature number of "I'd Love to Live in Loveland." Milton Delong Sisters are loud in their praise of "Mammy's Shufflin' Dance." Spink and Welsh, during their engagement at the Majestic, Chicago, found time to rehearse "I'd Love to Live in Loveland With a Girl Like You" and "Mammy's Shufflin' Dance," and have found a place for both songs in their repertoire. Laura Davis, now on W. V. A. time, is taking encores with "Mammy's Shufflin' Dance" and "I'd Love to Live in Loveland With a Girl Like You."

NOTES FROM STERN & CO.

Miller and Russell are using "The Mississippi Dippy Dip" to great advantage. This number is a big applause winner for them. The high class ballad, "I'll Go With You to the End of the World," is bringing Eunice Howe many encores. Evelyn Bennett is meeting with great success with Gray and Williams' novelty song, "Let Me Have a Kiss Until Tomorrow." Hal Frosh, tenor, is using Lamb and Henry's splendid ballad, "The Treasures of the World Are Mine." This song is taking five and six encores at every performance. Charlotte Perry is featuring "Love Me" and "I Like the Hat, I Like the Dress." She tells us that these two songs are the best numbers she has used for some time. Rose Kelly is using a full catalogue of Stern's songs, namely: "Don't Tense," "Love Me," "I Like the Hat, I Like the Dress," "When a Fellow Who is Lonesome" and many others. All of these numbers are taking encores for her.

MORSE MUSIC NOTES.

The Arion Quartette, composed of Messrs. Ryan, Broadbridge, Gluckstone and Fuller, are making a big hit on the Fox time with Theodore Morse's novelty number, "Another Rag." This act is such a hit that it will soon be seen in the big time houses. George Mack, the "Man in Gray," is rehearsing a new act at Theodore Morse's music office, with Otis Tabler, a clever pianist, and they will shortly be seen at one of the good houses, where they will use "Another Rag" in a decided novel manner. Broadway, near the corner of Thirty-seventh Street, was started by a wild-eyed individual rushing up and down the street, yelling "Another!" "Another!" incessantly. When stopped and questioned he said he had just been in the Morse Music Co.'s offices, and heard three pianos playing and three quartettes singing at the top of their voices something about "Another," and it had gotten on his nerves. It was "Another Rag," he meant, and he turned out to be a young man working a new advertising dodge for Theodore Morse. A hit in the hand is worth two in the safe. Yes, it can be done without a make-up. What? "Another" rag. If "Betty Brown" sang "Another" rag would "Sweet Swanee Sue"? The burlesque shows and musical comedies find "Another" rag the easiest number in years to costume. Officer!
